If You Lived the Life Of Barbara Hutton--

COULD you stand the life Barbara Hutton has been living as Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow? So much of the life of the very rich is lived these days before cameramen that news pictures give you a pretty good idea of what it is like. Do they give you a clue why Babs hasn't been agreeing with her Danish Count?

YOU'D EAT HIGH PRICED FOOD in ritzy surroundings and with plenty of attention from waiters if you lived the life of Barbara. Here she and Count Kurt von Haugwitz-Reventlow dine in San Francisco in May, 1935, shortly after their marriage.

YOUR DOG would pose for its portrait by a London artist, as Barbara's pet, Snookie, is doing.

YOUR SON could spend Christmas playing in the snow at St. Moritz. This is Lance, now a little more than two years old.

Count Goes to Court, Promises Not to Molest Barbara or Son

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A spruce but unhappy appearing Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow arrived from France today and won his freedom on 2,000 pound ($10,000) bail when he hustled before a Bow street magistrate on the charge he threatened his wife, the American-born, twice-wed Barbara Hutton, with "bodily harm."

In his brief appearance in court he promised not to interfere with or communicate with her and told the magistrate through his attorney that he was not carrying a pistol.

The gun, he said, was locked up in the Georgian style mansion in Regent's park where the countess has fortified herself and two-year-old son, Lance, behind a guard.

The proceeding was part of the quarrel over the future of the boy, who yesterday was made a ward in chancery—beyond the control of both count and countess.

Returning to England after a three weeks absence to face the countess' charges, the Danish nobleman was met upon his arrival on the Paris boat train by police and his lawyers.

The countess was not in court.

Her specific charge was that he had written a letter "using threats toward his wife whereby she apprehends she goes in danger of her life or bodily harm."

A hearing was scheduled for Tuesday.

BLAME GIRLS IN BOY'S SLAYING

Probers Charge Waitresses Drew Straws Before Killing.

WAYCROSS, Ga. —(U.P.)— The slaying of a 10-year-old boy by one of two girls who, directed by the child's father, had drawn straws to see which one would do it, was revealed today by Solicitor General John S. Gibson.

The girls, waitresses in the roadhouse of Harvey Nelson, 40, father of the victim, and Nelson, were under arrest. Gibson said he had obtained a confession from Nelson, which said that he, Verna Mae Clark, 18, and Mary Kent, 17, had plotted to kill the boy, known as "J. C.," in order to collect $900 insurance on his life.

The confession climaxed two months of investigation.

RUSH TO ALTAR

666 N. Y. Couples Seek to Avoid Blood Test Law.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Clerks in the marriage license bureaus had a breathing spell today after issuing 666 licenses yesterday, the last day on which altar-bound couples could obtain licenses without blood test certificates.

M'CORMICK'S BODY FOUND ON CLIFF'S LEDGE

INDIANS FIND CORPSE

(By United Press)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The body of John Medill McCormick, grandson of Mark Hanna and heir to a publishing fortune, has been found in the wild Sandia mountains, the United States Forest Service announced today.

Bodies Mile Apart.

Whitmer's body was found last Friday on a ledge on the western shield of Sandia peak. The second body was found on a ledge of the almost vertical wall of the Canon Del Agua, approximately a mile from where Whitmer was killed.

The canon precipice is 1,500 feet high. Foresters said the body would either be raised to the rim or lowered to the floor by ropes. In either case it will have to be carried 10 miles to the nearest road.

Frank C. W. Pooler, regional forest service supervisor, said the body had been found by a party of Sandia and Isleta Indians scouts. Two of the Indians climbed down the difficult ledge and examined the body. Neither knew McCormick, so identification was not positive.

'Practically Certain.'

"However," said Pooler, "we are practically certain that the body is that of Medill McCormick. The body is in such an inaccessible place that it will be impossible to recover it until late Friday."

Pooler refused to speculate on how McCormick, if it is McCormick's body, met death or how it happened that his body was a mile from the place where Whitmer, the more experienced climber of the two had fallen to his death.

The theory was advanced that McCormick may have seen his friend fall and suffered such an emotional shock that he wandered through the mountain range in a dazed condition, later falling to death himself.

DEATH MYSTERY

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (U.P.) — King Gray, a veteran movie cameraman who was shooting scenes in a mystery thriller at the Universal Studio Thursday, today was the center of a real-life mystery slaying. His body was found at the wheel of his car yesterday.

Gray, 42, had been shot through the chest. Police said it was murder. There was no trace of the gun but the jacket of a fired .32 caliber cartridge was on the car floor. There were no powder burns. His wallet, with its $63, had not been touched.

Gray had been dead for hours when a traffic officer shook his shoulder, thinking he was asleep. The body was stiff and cold. Hundreds of people had passed the car.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The war department today announced execution of contracts for $14,433,196.88 worth of fighting airplanes—largest such order in the peacetime history of the nation. The order called for 98 airplanes.

Included were 13 additional "flying fortess' bombing planes, 78 two-motored Douglas bombers, seven Vultee attack planes and additional airplane motors and equipment.

The order for the flying fortresses went to the Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle for $3,174,802.

LIQUOR HIGHER

Prices Hiked 8 Cents a Quart to Cover Gallonage Tax Boost.

Mansfield patrons of th city's two state liquor stores found their favorite brands a little higher in price today.

Prices were increased an average of eight cents per quart, and four cents per pint. The increase, general throughout the state, was made because of the recently-enacted federal gallonage tax boost from $2 to $2.25. The state increase, however, boosts prices about 32 cents per gallon.

Talk Over Famous Battle of Gettysburg

READY TO SEEK U. S. AID ON GAS

Mayor Considers Putting Case Up to Commission If Ohio Fuel Rejects Contract.

While city council awaited the Ohio Fuel Gas company's answer on the renewal of the present gas rate ordinance for Mansfield, passed nearly a month ago, Mayor Claude M. Hunter today said he was ready to seek the aid of the Federal Power commission in Washington should the contract be rejected by the utility.

The mayor said he would recommend to council that a protest be filed immediately with the commission, which was given broad jurisdiction over the interstate shipment and sale of natural gas n the Natural Gas Act, signed by President Roosevelt 10 days ago.

Under the federal act, the commission can establish the fairness of inter-state gas charges, something the utilities commissions of the various states were unable to do. The federal commission, however, is forbidden to increase gas rates.

In the meantime the Cleveland city council in a special session called today by Mayor Harold H.

NO PAY CUT NOW, GIRDLER SAYS

Republic Plans No Immediate Slash in Steel Wages.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A statement by Tom Girdler, board chairman of Republic Steel corporation, today was interpreted to mean that a wage reduction for the corporation's employes is not in immediate prospect. There was no indication, however, of Republic's future plans.

"Are you cutting wages?" Girdler was asked as he left here by airplane.

"No," was the monosyllabic response.

Muskets Roared 75 Years Ago Today at Gettysburg

2,000 Aging Veterans, Camped on Grounds of Historic Battle, Recall Start of Fight Ending Civil War.

(By International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa.—Three score and 15 years ago, this day brought Gettysburg the beginning of a bloody war's end as today it marked the beginning of another end for 2,000 Civil war veterans—their "last reunion."

Chance brought the rattle of musketry and the clash of saber into Gettysburg streets on July 1, 1863. But today, the 75th anniversary of the first day of fighting, peacetime preparations by state and federal commissions culminated in "reunion day," opening a commemorative week-end for the Blue and the Gray.

BUDGE WINNER

World's No. 1 Net Star Wins All-England Singles Title.

WIMBLEDON, Eng. — (U.P.) — J. Donald Budge of Oakland, Cal., the world's No. 1 tennis player, won the all-England singles title for the second consecutive time today, defeating 32-year-old Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin of England, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3, in a one-sided final match.

Austin never had a chance in the last major match of his brilliant career. He said he is going to retire now and quit big-time tennis.

Budge, ruler of every major court in the world, was the first American since "Big Bill" Tilden to win two in a row at Wimbledon. Tilden scored a "double" in 1920-21.

The least number of games he had lost in six matches prior to today was seven. And during the entire series he lost only 48.

County Ready to Start WPA Road Program By Thursday

Richland county will be ready to put more than 400 men to work on township roads and bridges by next Thursday under the county's $1,000,000 WPA program, County Engineer Howard C. Sword predicted today.

Release of funds for the project, approved by President Roosevelt, is expected early next week, and work will be started immediately, the engineer said.

Sword said an attempt would be made to get the Madison township road project under way first to provide employment for a number of men who will be forced to find means of support for their families during the township's "relief holiday" in July.

Under the set-up, the county will receive approximately $700,000 in a federal grant and must add about $330,000 to that amount itself.

Only one-third of the sponsor contribution will be in cash, however, Sword pointed out, since the county road department will be permitted to credit the use of its road equipment to its part of the project.

Eight townships and Mansfield and Shelby, will share the cost of the total project.

CABLE MURDER QUIZ REOPENED

Canton Grand Jury Calls For Construction Company's Books.

CANTON —(AP)— Books of the Cable Construction company were under subpoena today, Prosecutor A. C. L. Barthelmeh said, in a renewed investigation of the shotgun slaying in March, 1937, of Mrs. Dueber S. Cable, wife of the company's vice president.

The current grand jury received yesterday, Barthelmeh said, "certain information from the records heretofore not in the possession of the police or myself."

Barthelmeh remarked that "we always have wanted a complete list of employes of the Cable company and we have it now."

The child will be christened "Ellen." It is Miss Blondell's second child. She has a three-year-old son, Norman Scott Barnes, by her first marriage to George Barnes, a cameraman. Powell adopted this boy with Barnes' approval.

Dismal Half Year Ended; Rally Due?

All Barometers Down, But Leaders Hope for Improvement.

At the half-way mark in 1938, Mansfield and Richland county today looked to a general business and industrial upturn during the last half of the year, after surveying six months of backsliding which dropped industrial and retail figures far below last year.

The optimism for better things late in the year is based on the recent stir in the stock market and indications that industry has reached the bottom and must start back again as retailers replenish their stocks.

All Barometers Down.

Virtually every business barometer in the city—bank clearings, building permits, employment figures and new car sales—showed effects in the first half of 1938 of the national recession which started early last fall.

Bank clearings, indicating the amount of business transacted in the city, fell off $18,000,000 during the six months just ended, as compared with the same period last year.

The Mansfield Clearing House association reported clearings of $36,375,113 for the first half of this year and $54,475,417 in 1938. Every month so far this year has shown a decline from the corresponding month in 1938.

Building Down $100,000.

Less seriously hit by the recession, the city's first-half building permits slumped $100,000 from the 1938 figures. Valuation of new buildings in the city for the half-year period this year was $522,255, while in 1937 it was $625,483.

New residence construction this year showed a decline of $132,000, with 53 new homes erected as compared with 67 up to June 30 last year.

Sales of new cars so far this year have totaled 597, while the first half of 1937 produced 1,819 new car sales in the county. Truck sales were 108 for this year and 148 for the first six months of 1937.

Fewer Marriages.

The business and industrial decline even ruined some of Cupid's plans for June, the month of brides, and marriage license applications in county probate court dropped off to 50 last month from 67 in June last year.

The rubber industry has been less affected by the adverse turn in the economic picture, and the

SLAMS HOOVER

Ousted G-Man Says Chief Was 'Jealous' Over Spy Case.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Leon G. Turrou, dismissed from the federal bureau of investigation because he contracted to write a spy expose, charged today that the "jealousy" of J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, was responsible.

Turrou, who was credited with breaking a German espionage ring almost single-handedly, submitted his resignation on June 20 before his writing plans were announced. Subsequently the resignation was refused and he was listed as "discharged with prejudice."

Turrou charged that the only motivation for the pledge G-men were asked to sign to bar such writings was "to protect Mr. Hoover so that he could have exclusive book, magazine articles and movies, for money, for material gain."

DUFFY CAN'T GET HIGHWAY REPORT

Only Copy Sent to Davey's Secretary, Board Says.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey's six-member board of inquiry informed Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy today that it did not have available any extra copies of a voluminous report on its investigation of the state highway department.

Duffy had requested a certified copy of the report to determine whether his office should take action on reported irregular practices in the highway department which the board criticized.

SEE BUSINESS SWING UPWARD BY LABOR DAY

Government Launches 8-Point Program to Supply Jobs to 10 Million Unemployed.

OPTIMISM PREVAILING

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The administration began today what President Roosevelt calls "the real drive on depression."

It was the start of a new fiscal year in which relief agencies, the army and navy, public works departments and federal lending corporations may pour out approximately $8,500,000,000. Some of this money is returnable to the treasury.

Administration officials said this huge sum—equal to more than $66 for every person in the nation—was needed because there were approximately 10,500,000 unemployed in the country. This estimate, furnished by a federal economist, was 4,500 higher than last October, when the recession's effect became visible.

See Upward Swing.

Officials left little doubt they hoped to get business positively on the upgrade by Labor day, although economists estimated it would take a year from the upturn to recover the ground lost since last summer. In that time, the federal reserve board's index of industrial production has fallen [illegible] in American history.

Here's what the administration proposes to do with the $8,500,000,000:

1. WPA, whose employment rolls have risen from 1,450,000 last October to 2,735,000, will step up its spending to care for a maximum of about 3,000,000 persons. Compared with the $1,500,000,000 it had in the last 12 months, WPA has $1,425,000,000 for the next eight months.

2. PWA, which spent $216,000,000 in the last year, can spend up to $1,000,000,000 in the new year. It already has allocated $400,828,000 for projects to be started as rapidly as possible in every state and territory.

3. CCC received $286,000,000 to retain its present strength of 300,000 youths and veterans in 1,500 camps, instead of sending more men home to increase unemployment.

Davey Stops In City, Mansfielders Wait In Columbus

While E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic chief, and a group of county party leaders waited at the governor's mansion in Columbus last night for a conference, Gov. Martin L. Davey was having dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The governor stopped here en route home from the Grotto convention in Cleveland. He was accompanied by his escort of highway patrolmen and another couple, whose identity could not be learned. Gov. Davey had conferred earlier in the day with senate and house leaders in Cleveland on the relief legislation.

He left Mansfield about 8:30 p m, just a few minutes before reporters, learning that he was in the city reached the hotel to interview him.

Kallmerten said his party conferred with the governor after he reached Columbus "on campaign matters." In the Richland county group with Kallmerten were Mrs. Mae Lex, secretary of the county executive committee; Mrs. Louise M. Reese and Miss Mary Newcomer of the county Young Democratic club.

SHEEP LOSS IN COUNTY REDUCED FOR SIX MONTHS

Richland county farmers lost only half as many sheep as the result of raids by dogs during the first half of this year, as they lost in a similar period in 1937, animal claims approved by county commissioners showed today.

Claims for the first six months of this year totaled $808 as compared with $1,671 last year.

For the quarter ending July 30, commissioners allowed 21 claims for a total of $540, with the largest filed by C. O. Robinson, Madison township. He was allowed $113 for sheep killed by dogs. In the same quarter last year, losses amounted to $1,330.

Credits Drive on Dogs.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, attributed the reduction in losses to the county's drive against unlicensed dogs and a healthier condition of sheep.

Once a prominent sheep-raiser in the county, Mitchell said sheep are sturdier this year and not so likely to be run down by dogs or to die as the result of being chased.

DODGERS BETTER CALL IT QUITS; CAN'T WIN DAY OR NIGHT.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—We say it's time for the Dodgers to quit. . . . They can't win in the day time and they can't win at night. . . . Golf note: First guy to tee off in the qualifying round of the P. G. A. tournament at Shawnee-on-Delaware July 10 will be Frank Champ of Terre Haute, Ind. . . . Dutch Bergman, Catholic U.'s smart football coach, is thinking of quitting in the next year or so to become associated with a sugar refining company. . . . They thought so little of Seabiscuit as a two-year-old he was used principally as a work horse.

* * *

Ouch Dept.: Vic Emanuel, racing expert of the Houston (Texas) post, flew all the way to Suffolk to see War Admiral and Seabiscuit race. . . . Bernie Masterson, star quarterback of the Chicago Bears, will marry a Chicago girl July 4.

* * *

The day he eliminated Charles Hare, high ranking British player from the national clay court championship, Eddie Alloo, 19-year-old California sensation, sent a 150-word telegram to his old coach, Tom Stow of Oakland, giving Tom credit for the victory and telling him what a great guy he is, etc. . . . The cockles of Tom's heart were well warmed up until he found the message had been sent—collect.

* * *

Bill Brandt, National league press agent, deposeth and says (tongue in cheek) re night baseball: "Great!" . . . "The bands, the lights, the yowling peanut vendors and the rest of the hoop la really gets the fans going." . . . Oh yeah! . . . Reports keep bobbing up that either Bernie Bierman of Minnesota or Frank Thomas of Alabama will succeed Bill Spaulding at U. C. L. A. next year.

* * *

When Johnny Vander Meer won himself a couple of no hitters and became a celeb, Warren Giles, general manager of the Reds, offered to handle Johnny's business for him. . . . They signed a contract under which Giles was to receive $1 for his services. . . . Now he can't collect the dollar. . . . Bill Keefe, sports ed of the New Orleans Times-Picayune is nuts about his baby girl. . . . While here for the fight, Bill called his home one night and made the Mrs. wake the baby so he could hear it cry over the phone. . . . Now somebody else is afraid to go home.

Easiest Signal Is Best, Says Hemsley, Who's Catching Improved Feller

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Ralston Burdett Hemsley, as one former schoolboy wonder to another, signals Bob Feller that every American league batter has a weakness.

"If they didn't they'd all hit .900 per cent," says the 30-year-old Hemsley, who started with Pittsburgh when he was only 19, after three years with Frederick, Md.

The Cleveland Indians obtained Hemsley from the St. Louis Browns this year to catch the Iowa speedball flash after Hemsley greatly impressed him on a post-season barnstorming tour. So "Rollie," a traditional wad of tobacco in his mouth, took young Master Robert in hand.

Feller has great confidence in Hemsley and he feels he can toss better when Rollie is behind the plate. Hemsley has helped him gain more control and has also aided him in developing a good curve.

Baseball men call Hemsley one of the smartest receivers in the business. Joe Doaks, the loud-voiced guy with the bag of peanuts up in the stands, isn't much more surprised when Hemsley picks a man off base than the man himself.

"Bob's greatest trouble is his wildness—and that's about all," says Hemsley.

Offers Good Target.

"I just go out and talk to him, and tell him not to worry about the batter. The other thing to pull him out of it is to give him good targets—push the glove out at him."

"About the only man you have to watch is the runner on second. Your legs and your glove keep the coaches on first and third from stealing them. The same goes for the dugout."

Feller's battery-mate is a good psychologist.

"It's a gamble you take, when you're in a tight spot, deciding whether to pitch to the batter's strength or weakness. I've seen batters frequently hit a ball on which they're supposed to be weak—just because they're looking for it. I've seen a lot of pitchers throw the ball right to the batter's strength because of that.

Gehringer Tough.

"But Charlie Gehringer — you have to outguess him. He's liable to go up and take three straight curve balls, waiting for a fast one. The next time he might take three fast ones, waiting for a curve.

Just as the pitch is about to start and the batter must intently watch the pitcher, Hemsley pushes out his glove to tell Feller where the ball should go—inside, outside, low or high.

"You can even signal with your feet or by getting up and down," says Hemsley, "but the easiest signal is the best. It allows the pitcher to concentrate on the batter—instead of the signs."

Bob and Rollie talk over their signals.

Indians Take Wild 10-9 Decision From Detroit

Cleveland Opens Three-Game Series With White Sox Today; Humphries to Start.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Oscar Vitt, first-year manager of the Cleveland Indians, today served notice on members of the Tribe's pitching staff that they must be ready to work in and out of turn in an effort to give the club its first American league pennant since 1920.

As the Idians came here to open a three-game series with the Chicago White Sox, Vitt had demonstrated that "kid gloves" are not a part of his wardrobe and that there will be no pampered members of the Cleveland mound corps.

Vitt's bold policy was made clear yesterday at Cleveland as the Indians took a wild 10 to 9 decision from the Detroit Tigers to snare the series and maintain their three-game lead over the second place New York Yankees.

Feller Falters In Eighth.

Although Bob Feller, schoolboy right-hander, had gone nine full innings Monday against Boston, Vitt sent him back into action against the Tigers yesterday. When the Iowa youngster faltered in the eighth inning Vitt called upon his other right-handed ace, Johnny Allen, for relief duty. Allen had faced the Tigers in the first game of the series Tuesday.

To Allen fell the hero's robes.

The fiery right-hander went to the hill after Feller walked the first two men to face him in the eighth inning and with the score 9 to 5 in favor of Cleveland, Billy Rogell, the first man to face Allen, tripled and two runs scampered home. Then a double by Dixie Walker drove in another and the tying run was plated on an infield out and a long fly.

Temporarily the "goat" Allen blanked the Tigers in the ninth.

When Hal Trosky flied out and Ken Keltner popped out in the Indian half of the ninth, it appeared the game would go extra innings. Then Frankie Pytlak tripled and up came Allen. He smashed a single to center field and the contest was over.

Allen Wins 11th Straight.

Allen was credited with the victory, his 11th straight of the season.

Feller, who started for Cleveland, pitched creditable ball but was extremely wild. The youngster gave up only eight hits, but walked seven men. When Feller was not forced to make his pitches too good he had the Tigers mystified. Nine of them went down on strikes during his stay in the box.

The Indians collected 14 hits off the deliveries of Vernon Kennedy, Jake Wade and Harry Eisenstat. The latter was charged with the loss.

Red Legs Meet Chicago Today

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Back on the home lot after a road trip that saw them gain second place, then lose it to the onrushing Pittsburgh Pirates, the Cincinnati Reds were scheduled to tackle the Chicago Cubs in a game under the lights tonight.

The Reds dropped the final game of the series to the Pirates in Pittsburgh yesterday, 3-1, when Cy Blanton turned in a three-hit pitching performance that had the Reds helpless in all but the ninth inning.

The result dumped the Reds into third place, one game ahead of the Cubs while the Pirates were surging into second on the heels of the leading New York Giants.

Bucky Walters' slants were no deep secret to the rampaging Bucs. They climbed on Walters for 12 hits with Vaughan leading the swatters with three bingles. Blanton allowed only one hit until the ninth frame and fanned five.

MUSILLES BOW TO NEW PITTSBURGH, 4-3

Musille's Cigars dropped a thrilling 4 to 3 decision to the New Pittsburgh softballers under the lights at New Pittsburgh last night. The Mansfieders staged a three-run uprising in the eighth inning, but were unable to overcome the early lead piled up by the winners. McKinley, who gave up only four hits while striking out 13, led the Mansfield attack with a triple and single. Adinkirk hit a home run for the winners.

Sports Chatter

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Take it from Jimmy Bronson, who managed Gene Tunney to the world's heavyweight championship and into the two greatest "gates" boxing has ever known, Joe Louis isn't going to hang on to the title for the next decade, as many of the experts are predicting.

* * *

The New Yorker, still interested in the fight game as a manager, wound up a "hurry-up" trip today to Ohio's capital, to get a look at Floyd Gibbons, husky Columbus scrapper who has been toppling opponents with monotonous regularity the last year. Bronson signed him, and headed back to New York with him.

* * *

"This fight game is a funny thing," Bronson said. "Some fellow wins the title and it looks as if he'll stay up there for a long time. But you can bet that the boy who is destined to beat the champ is just around the corner somewhere.

* * *

"This boy Gibbons may be the one. He's better than six feet tall, weighs about 200, and is only 21 years old. He has a 'kick' in either hand, and plenty of speed. You just can't tell when some youngster like that will blossom out as a top-notch challenger.

* * *

Bronson confided that the hunt for a "white hope" is on again, just as it was when Jack Johnson reigned over the heavyweight division. Practically all the big-time managers, he said, were "shaking the bushes" in search of someone capable of mounting to the top.

* * *

Jake Hart of Columbus, affiliated with boxing as a manager, promoter and referee for more than 40 years, started Gibbons in the fight game and brought him along until now. He figured Gibbons was ready for a crack at sterner stuff, so he tipped off Bronson.

Gibbons has scored 28 knockouts in his 35 fights, losing one decision and winning the others. The boy who won the lone verdict was kayoed in a return bout.

Bissman Wins to Cling To 'B' League Van

Wallop Newsmen, 4 to 1, to Hold Three-Point Lead Over Sharpshooting Metal Vaults.

By CHARLES MARTIN

ALTHOUGH they turned in an impressive performance in the matches at Possum Run yesterday, the brassie-swingers of the pace-setting Bissman company have a fight on their hands to retain their lofty perch in the News-Journal Class B golf league.

Bissman's chief rival today was the Mansfield Metal Vault foursome and if yesterday's results are any indication the leaders can expect plenty of trouble from the sharpshooting outfit.

The Bissman club wielders broke loose to wallop the News-Journal team, 4 to 1, but still the fast-stepping Vaults were able to pick up a point on the leaders by whitewashing Al's Kicks, 5 to 0. The runners-up now trail Bissman by three points.

Move Into Third.

Central Fruit moved up from fifth into a tie for third with the Newsmen as it thumped the Ohio Public Service club, 4 to 1. In the other affair the Auxter Motors took a 2 to 1 decision from the last-place Elks lodge. One match was postponed, leaving two points still in doubt.

Led by Adam Brandt's near-par 38, the leaders took three matches and team total to register their one-sided triumph over the News-Journal outfit. V. H. Oberlander saved the Newsman from a shutout by defeating Tony Shadek.

The Metal Vaults ran into a little trouble from the Shoes, but emerged with flying colors. Fay Strome carded a 38, but had to play an extra hole before he defeated Chuck Schlegel who came in with a 39. Elmer Hedeen also was called on to travel to the tenth hole to down Fred Lewis. Hedeen shot a 48 and Lewis a 46.

Central Fruit's clouters, who pounded out a neat 164 total to annex team scoring honors for the day, turned on the power to topple the Servicemen. Harry Fay posted a 40 to win the only match for the Electrics. Wayne Anthony was low for the winners with a 38.

Wins Individual Honors.

With Frank Vild winning individual scoring honors with a par 35, the Motors walked away with two matches against the Lodgemen. Doty chalked up the second victory by defeating Herre. Red Barrett saved the only point for the losers by finishing with a 41 to beat Clarence Connor.

Jake Lyons will go to the mound for the Mansfielders as they attempt to score their first victory over the invaders. The clubs will also play a single game at the Fairground Sunday on the Boosters' day program. The tilt will be played as a preliminary attraction to the American Legion-Coshocton Central Ohio semi-pro game.

Pitches First No-Hit Game In Junior Loop.

The distinction of pitching the first no-hit no-run game in the city recreation Junior baseball league is held today by Ogelsby who was on the mound yesterday at the Fairground as the Dodgers whitewashed the Bees, 15 to 0. The Dodgers pushed across three runs in the first frame, four in the third, and climaxed the scoring with eight in the fourth. Romano hit a double and two singles for the winners, and Brooks added a home run to the attack.

The Reds were riding at the head of the field in the Junior league today by virtue of their 11 to 6 decision over the erstwhile unbeaten Pirates at the Fairground yesterday. The clubs staged a real battle before the Reds went ahead in the second with a three-run raly with the score tied at 5-all. The victory with a three-run rally with the leaders. Dials and Gross collected two hits apiece for the winners.

Rallying to drive across six runs in the late innings the Friendly House defeated the Eagles 11 to 6, at Liberty park yesterday to register their first victory of the season.

250 Entries Seen At Fair's Race Meeting

When Richland county fair board directors set the dates of July 27, 28 and 29 for the 1938 fair, they did so in a move to make this year's agricultural festival a success, both financially and from a standpoint of entertainment.

The early dates were set primarily so that the fair would be assured of a harness racing program that will remind horsemen of "the old days" when Mansfield really was talked about as a "horse town."

Cream of Racers.

The late July fair will bring to Mansfield horses from the Short Ship circuit, those of Grand Circuit caliber and most of the rest that follow later and more outstanding fairs in Ohio. The program here will permit horsemen to keep their favorites in trim after earlier meetings.

B. H. Huston, superintendent of the speed program, has estimated that between 250 and 300 horses will be quartered at the Fairground track during the three-day meeting. They will come from outstanding training stables from six states.

King Vagabond, Mansfield-owned horse which only recently won new fame with a world trotting record of 2:13½ for running one and one-sixteenth miles, is expected to be among the entries.

Last night at the Toledo Grand Circuit meeting King Vagabond won the 2:17 trot, winning the first heat in 2:05½ and the second in 2:04¾. There were 12 starters.

Owned by Roy Dickson and E. S. Nail, King Vagabond set the record at the Ohio Short Ship meeting at Canfield, O., June 20. The former record of 2:14 was set by Jane Allen, Illinois trotter, last year at Canton.

Callie G. Entered.

Among other outstanding entries will be Frank S. Callahan's Callie G., who last year as a two-year-old paced to a record of 2:06¾, the best performance on a half mile track. Driven by Gabe Cartnal of Hanover, east of Newark, Callie G. started in eight races on half mile tracks last year and won seven of them. The colt raced in 17 heats and won 15, losing but one race and then because of a wreck.

Callie G. will run in the three-year-old pace here. Single Girl, a full sister to Callie G., will enter the pace for two-year-olds.

Early entries indicate other outstanding stables and trainers will be on hand for the speed meeting here.

These include Delvin Miller of Avella, Pa., who at 24 drove 23 mounts last year and was a money winner with all; Harry Short of Columbus; Wayne Smart of Newark; Bob Valley of Urbana; Hump Morrison of Sandusky; Wert Mallow of North Randall; Charles Surko of North Randall.

Frank Cares of Norwalk; C. J. Shilling of Columbus; Jay and Walter Douglas of Greenville (they are brothers but operate separate stables) and Benny Sturgeon of Bellefontaine.

NEW YORK—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, whose feud could be no more intense had one been born a Hatfield and the other a McCoy, meet again tomorrow at Wimbledon.

They've been gunning for one another for a decade now, and there's no love lost between them—never has been since their rivalry started when they were little girls in Berkeley, Calif.

* * *

Two weeks ago both of the Helens apparently were headed toward the wings, their days under the international tennis spotlight at an end. Mrs. Moody came to the start of Wimbledon bearing scars of defeat at the hands of Hilda Sperling and Mary Hardwick, players she could have beaten without adjusting her eye-shade when she was young.

The chances of Miss Jacobs reaching the final were even more remote. Plagued by ill-health, she collapsed in the dressing room before her first round match and was forced to request a postponement for the first time in her career.

* * *

In London the youngest ball boy and the oldest critic will tell you that no pair of antagonists ever produced a match to equal that one between the Helens in 1935.

It was one of the few genuine grudge tennis matches ever played. Miss Jacobs was playing to prove to the world that her victory over Mrs. Moody in the final round at Forrest Hills in 1933 was deserved. Mrs. Moody was equally determined to show that the only way her rival could ever beat her was by default.

* * *

For nearly two hours the two girls played it out. Attacking savagely, Mrs. Moody won the first set 6-3.

Superbly confident, Mrs. Moody increased the tempo of her thrusts but they were futile in the face of Miss Jacobs' inspired play. Miss Jacobs took the second set 6-3.

The third and deciding set was a heart-stopper. Miss Jacobs fought her way to a 5-3 lead and match point in the ninth game. And then—with her life-time goal just a step away—she hit an easy lob into the bottom of the net.

Disheartened, she slumped a bit. Reprieved, Mrs. Moody put on more pressure and went on to win.

Now they are to meet again. And by midnight tonight thousands will already have begun their long vigil at Wimbledon's gates.

Van Mungo Hurls One-Hitter

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Pitching, many baseball authorities assert, is at least 70 per cent of a winning major league ball club.

A glance about the majors today shows that pitching has come in streaks this season. Sandwiched in between days of terrific home run hitting come days of air-tight twirling in both leagues.

Such a day was yesterday, with Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn right-hander, leading the mount parade with a one hit shutout of the Boston Bees.

In addition, in the seven games played there was a three-hitter, two four-hitters, a six-hitter and a seven-blow performance, all adding up to pitching par excellence.

Double Ruins No-Hitter.

Mungo had things all his own way as he beat the Bees 5 to 0 by holding the Bostonians to a lone blow—a double by Rabbit Warstler—to chalk up his third win of the year Not a Bee reached third as Mungo fanned six and walked eight.

Cy Blanton limited the Cincinnati Reds to three safeties as the Pittsburgh Pirates took the odd contest of a three game series, 3 to 1. Two of the three hits came in the ninth inning. The victory put the Buccaneers in second place in the league standings.

The New York Yankees made it three in a row over the Philadelphia Athletics as Charley Ruffing held the A's to four hits and was aided to a 7 to 1 victory by home runs by Joe Dimaggio—his 11th—and Tommy Henrich.

The other four-hit performance was fashioned by Jack Knott who pitched the Chicago White Sox to an 11 to 1 victory over the lowly St. Louis Browns. The Sox meanwhile got 11 hits off four Browns hurlers.

Jim Bagby Wins.

In Boston, young Jim Bagby limited the Senators to six hits at the Red Sox pounded out 16 to win, 11 to 1. Bagby won his fifth victory, while Jimmy Foxx, Doc Cramer and Joe Vosmik led the Boston attack with three hits each

The New York Giants trounced the Philadelphia Phillies 14 to 1 as Clydell Castleman yielded only seven hits to the Phils, while the Giants pounded out 19 hits including a home run, two doubles and a single by Hank Lieber, and two doubles and three singles by Sam Leslie.

The Cubs and Cardinals were rained out in Chicago.

St. Paul Hops Into First Place

ST. PAUL—(AP)—St. Paul was in first place in the American association today, thanks to the good righ arm of Ray Phelps and a home run by Ollie Bejma.

For weeks the Apostles had nipped at the heels of Kansas City and Indianapolis as the Blues and the Indians see-sawed in and out or tied for the lead.

Last night St. Paul met the Blues and won 3 to 0 in 12 innings.

Toledo helped St. Paul by defeating Indianapolis 4 to 3 in 10 innings. Milwaukee beat Minneapolis, 6 to 4, and Columbus handed Louisville defeat Number 45 by a 7 to 4 score.

RALLY IN NINTH TO TOP LIBERTY SHOES

A one-run rally in the last of the ninth inning enabled the North End Merchants to defeat the Liberty Shoes, 4 to 3, in a softball affair yesterday at Johns park. he Shoemen piled up a three runs in the early innings, but were unable to halt the winners. Walters, who limited the Liberty team to nine hits, secured three bingles to lead the Merchants' attack.

Juniors Have College Spirit

CHICAGO (AP) William Harridge, American league president, came up with a new theory today on how the circuit he heads has managed to win four of the five major league all-star games—"the old American league-college spirit."

"I don't know what arrangements the National league has made this year about placing its men in next week's game at Cincinnati," said Harridge, "but all the National league used to do was just notify the players and let it go at that. We don't do it that way and the result, I think, has been our margin of games won."

"We take a lot of pride in winning these all-star games" he continued. "You might call it the old college spirit, or league spirit, but we feel that the game is an all-league proposition rather than just a game between several individual stars.

"First, we write a letter to every American league player selected to play, instructing him as to the starting time of the game and the pre-game meeting with the manager We ask each player to have his uniform in perfect condition and ask him to be in good condition for the game.

"Then we make all arrangements for the player's transportation to Cincinnati and from there to the city at which his team next will be playing. All hotel reservations are taken care of and the player does not have to pay expenses for the game out of his pocket and wait for reimbursement. It's surprising the number of letter we get from players after the game, thanking us for our consideration. They feel it a real honor to play for the league and as a result, play better ball."

Managers Name Pitchers.

The American league, Harridge said, also writes to each club manager, asking him, so far as possible, to have pitchers named for the all-star tilt in first class condition.

Harridge admits that the "percentage" appears to favor the National league next Wednesday but he still believes his circuit's team is a good bet to make it five wins out of six starts.

Louis Will Not Defend Title Against Baer This Year

CHICAGO—(INS)—World's Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will not fight Max Baer in September, nor will he defend his title against anybody else again this year.

The champion will rest on his laurels and confine his boxing to a few exhibition bouts, it was clear today.

Responsible for this disclosure is Julian Black, Louis' co-manager, who also revealed the fighter has cancelled his passage aboard a liner for Europe next Wednesday.

Joe Needs Rest.

The reason for the change in plans, said Black, is that Louis feels he needs a rest. He successfully defended his title the fourth time in 12 months on June 22 when he swarmed all over Max Schmeling at Yankee stadium.

Black said he had consulted Mike Jacobs, who also is interested in the promotional side of Louis' activities, and that Jacobs saw it the same way

Jacobs, said Black, approved plans to keep Joe out of a title bout until next spring at the earliest.

The switch in plans does not affect Baer's standing as the logical man to meet Louis provided Baer can stay perpendicular in any fights he undertakes between now and 1939.

Barlund May Replace Baer.

In the event Maxie runs afoul of an adverse decision or gets in the way of a hay-maker, Gunnar Barlund of Finland would step into the California boy's shoes.

Joe Louis is going domestic and social. Instead of punching people around he wants to take personal charge of the erection of a home for his mother, Mrs. Lily Brooks, in Detroit. He will leave for that city today to assist her in choosing a lot.

Joshua—A Choice of Loyalties

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson series, on July 3, begins a three months' course on "Messages from Israel's Early Leaders," this first lesson being on Joshua, based on Numbers 27: 15-23; Joshua 1:1-9; 24:1-31, particularly Joshua 1:2-6; 24:14-21, with Joshua 24:15, the Golden Text: "As for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah.")

"GOD BURIES the workmen, but carries forward the work." The time comes for all of us when "we rest from our labors and our works do follow us."

Joshua Succeeds Moses.

The proof of Moses' greatness as a leader is found not only in his own colossal work, but also in his selection and training of his successor, who was made ready to carry forward his work after God should remove him from the picture. Moses did not pout and rebel because he was to be removed from leadership. He played the game like a man with no sign of jealousy or bitterness and Joshua's success became Moses' joyful anticipation. Blessed is he that can step down gracefully: "And Joshua, the son of Nun, was full of the spirit of wisdom; for Moses had laid his hands upon him; and the children of Israel hearkened unto him and did as Jehovah commanded Moses." Joshua is fitly called "Moses' minister." He rose to the position of national leadership through the school of service. He learned to take orders and thus fitted himself to give orders. By his loyalty under authority he proved himself worthy of the nation's loyalty to him and his authority.

"Moses, my servant, is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them." Thus God commissioned Joshua to succeed Moses. Moses had led them out; Joshua was now to lead them in. And as God calls, so he equips, and sees us through that to which he calls us: "Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, to you have I given it, as I spake unto Moses. . . . There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee; I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." Thus for us and our work, as for that of Moses and Joshua, when God puts us on a job he foots the bills:

Joshua's Part—and Ours.

But Joshua is to have his part in which he must be found faithful, "Be strong and of good courage: for thou shalt cause this people to inherit the land which I sware unto their fathers to give them. Only be strong and very courageous to observe to do, according to all the law, which Moses, my servant, commanded thee; turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest have good success whithersoever thou goeth?" God pledges his own presence and power, but he also binds us to follow his word: "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou shalt meditate thereon day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success."

AVERTS LAY-OFF OF WPA WORKERS

Car of Cement Promised for Next Week, Sidewalk Jobs to Go on.

Mansfield city officials, who have sought to provide materials in order to keep 100 workers employed on the city-wide WPA curb and gutter project, today had at least a temporary solution to the problem.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert announced that WPA officials in Columbus had assured the city that at least one car of cement would be in Mansfield Tuesday. He said the material would stave off a threatened lay-off of the 100 workers on the job which would have resulted because of the meager supply on hand.

WPA officials earlier this week had informed city officials that no cement could be delivered here until July 20. The city had offered to purchase the cement and then accept the federal material in return when it could be delivered but the offer was turned down.

Yesterday, Glenn Weller, City-WPA engineer, returning from a hurried trip to Columbus where he conferred with District WPA Director J. L. Kelley, informed Styert that he had the promise that the cement would be here when WPA returned to work Tuesday after their three day holiday.

THEATER

REMEMBER when Mrs. Leslie Carter scandalized the nation with her stage play "Zaza?" The play will be revitalized into a screen drama. Isa Miranda, a newcomer, will do the old Carter role which is filled to the brim with emoting and chest heaving. Herbert Marshall has the male lead, and Bert Lahr will play his first straight role, that of the theatrical producer. The fabled diamonds of Diamond Jim Brady will find their way to the screen at last in this picture. Those used by Edward Arnold in the Diamond Jim role were phoney. At least $25,000 of the real McCoy will be worn by Lahr. They are being rented by Paramount.

Daffy But Rhythmic.

A new orchestra, daffy but good, is introduced in "Gold Diggers In Paris," which is showing at the Ohio with Rudy Vallee, Rosemary Lane, Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins. It is the Schnickelfritz band that mingles nonsense with lee discovered and brought to Hollywood. It's a so-called "rustic" band that mingles nonesense with rhythm, and they make rhythm out of almost any combination of hardware. The Busby Berkeley dance numbers are special attractions in the picture. Of course there's a story, although it is light even for summer consumption, and several singable songs. The Ohio continues the musical show through Saturday, opening the new show "Three Blind Mice" at a Saturday midnight matinee.

McLaglen Scores.

Victor McLaglen, whose greatest screen role was Gypo, the beleagured Celt in "The Informer," gives a human and sympathetic interpretation to the role he plays in "Devil's Party," current at the Madison. He is the outstanding figure among five persons who grow up in "Hell's Kitchen," New York's worst district. But his triumph is by no means solo, for there are four others who turn in interesting performances. One is William Gargan as a police officer, Paul Kelly as the priest who tries to keep his old companions in line, John Gallaudet as another officer, and Beatrice Roberts as the only girl in the group. The tangled web of their destinies make up the theme of the story.

Maynard at Majestic.

Ken Maynard in "Six Shootin Sheriff," is a member of a wild western gang unjustly framed for a bank robbery who goes back to the town where the robbery occurred to settle matters with his accusers. He is hired to stay in town and help the merchants protect their stores against the wild, rowdy cowboys that hang around town. The postmistress' daughter provides additional inspiration for staying and cleaning up the town. Warner Richmond, Lafe McKee and Marjorie Reynolds are among the players. Also on the bill is "Young Fugitives," with Robert Wilcox and Dorothea Kent.

SETS VALUE ON ATTACHED TRUCK

Appraisers Place $900 Value on Vehicle Involved in Week-Old Crash.

The truck and trailer which figured in an accident involving five vehicles in Mansfield a week ago and against which two attachment suits have been filed, had been appraised today at $900, according to an entry in common pleas court.

Attachments totaling $774 to cover damages to two automobiles in the accident have been filed in municipal court. The court bailiff is holding the truck and trailer, owned by the Jaffa Trucking company, Chicago, until the suits are settled.

Appraisement was made by Sheriff E. P. Long, G. L. Rogers and Lloyd Armstrong.

An action for $700 was filed by Dr. G. P. Rebold, Grand Island, Neb., for the loss of his car, and another for $74 by Fred Alacca, Mansfield, to collect for damages to his automobile. The Chicago firm was named defendant in both suits.

George Lawrence, Chicago, was driving the truck. He is serving a 90-day sentence in the county jail on a conviction for driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Pixilated Comedy.

"Danger, Love at Work," opening at the Ritz today, is one of those "commotion" pictures that make you laugh uproariously while seeing it—and then you can't remember a thing about it afterward. Simply told, the story is Boy Meets Girl, Boy Meets Family, Boy Loses Mind. The Girl is crazy to get the Boy, the Boy is crazy to get the Girl away from the Family; the Family is just plain crazy. Jack Haley is the bewildered young attorney who tries to get away from a family with a shotgun; Ann Sothern is the girl, Mary Boland is the ambitious mother, and Edward Everett Horton the father. As a gesture toward sanity the Ritz also presents a Western, Bob Baker in "The Last Stand."

Night Watchman Has $1,000,000 Stamp Collection

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—Retirement and travel on funds from his stamp collection are anticipated by Julius E. Webber, Sacramento night watchman.

This retiring, bespectacled philatelist is a specialist in his field. He confesses his hobby exclusively to air mail stamps and believes he has the world's largest collection of first flight covers.

Webber admits it is an expensive hobby. He estimates the value of his collection at $1,000,000 (catalog price).

"Collecting stamps is my way of investing money," he said. "I buy what I think will be a rare stamp. The stamp goes out of circulation. The price begins to rise and then I have something.

"If things go right," he continued, "I'll make a big sale someday and be able to retire. Then I will travel to all the places I know now only by their air mail stamps — and I have air mail stamps from every nation in the world in which air mail schedules are maintained."

MARKET STARTS WITH RALLIES, THEN SLOWS UP

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market went on a brief rallying spree in today's early proceedings but soon decided the celebration might have been a bit premature.

After a quiet and uneven opening, a sharp buying spurt appeared mid-way of the first hour and advances ran to 2 or more points. There soon was a slow-down, however.

Some traders were inclined to garner profits and step out for the 2½-day holiday which begins at noon tomorrow.

Bonds were selectively higher and major commodities advanced. Foreign securities markets were trendless.

Favored stocks included Consolidated Edison, North American, Electric Power & Light, Public Service of N. J., U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric, Johns - Manville, Douglas Aircraft and United Aircraft.

Coppers came into the limelight as one producer, who failed to act on yesterday's boost of the domestic rate to 9¼ cents a pound, announced he had tilted his price to 9½ cents. Others quickly followed. Spot zinc was also hoisted, and non-ferrous metal futures exhibited strength both here and abroad. Export copper was slightly higher.

MADISON HALTS RELIEF ORDERS

Declares 'Holiday' During July; Money Gone, Township $3,100 in Debt.

except through a real estate tax," Beam said. "We are receiving $1,000 a month from the state and $200 a month from our general fund, but this amount is entirely inadequate. In March the court authorized the transfer of $10,000 from our road funds to relief funds, but this amount was used up in two months. We can't handle the situation without funds and we've got to have a show-down now before we get any further in debt."

By "show-down," Beam said he meant that the situation must crystalize, that the public must be made to see that relief is a problem that must be solved definitely. The state legislature having failed to provide any assistance, and with their only means of raising funds an assessment on real estate, the trustees are submitting a one mill levy on real estate in the township to the voters at the August primaries. This is in addition to the two-mill levy on real estate which will be proposed by the city for relief.

Relief orders, Beam said, have been inadequate because of lack of funds. Nist termed $1,200 a month for 400 families "ridiculous," pointing out that at that figure families on relief will receive only $3 per month regardless of the size of the families, for food and cooking fuel.

Relief orders today ranged from three to five dollars, and these must last a family until Aug. 1, Beam said.

Surviving are her husband, Charles Brandt; three daughters, Mrs. Ira Ling, Miss Arlene Smith of Mansfield, and Mrs. Raymond Freeman of Galion; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Denman of Waldo; four sisters, Mrs. George Probst and Mrs. George Webb of Marion, Mrs. Walter Bodley of Akron and Mrs. Edward Vetter of Cleveland and a brother, Vernon Denman of Waldo. She was a member of the Waldo Methodist Episcopal church.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of the South Main Street Evangelical church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Jury Raises Farm Easement Cost In Muskingum Action

After deliberating a little more than an hour late yesterday, a jury in Richland county common pleas court decided that a flood easement on 76 acres of Samuel Harlan's farm in Mifflin township was worth $2,800, more than twice as much as the Muskingum conservancy district offered him for it.

The Muskingum conservancy board asked that the jury determine the compensation due Harlan after he had appealed from an appraisement of $1,230 for his land.

The 76 acres involved in the suit are below the elevation of the spillway of the Charles Mill dam and may be covered with water if a flood occurs.

About 20 witnesses, including a number of property owners in Mifflin township were examined during the three-day trial which was heard by Judge Walter J. Mourgey of Wooster.

The conservancy board was represented by Atty. John C. O'Donnell, and Harlan's counsel was Atty. William F. Black.

ELKLAND, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Her slumber disturbed by curious hikers, a hibernating bear deserted two black cubs in a cave near here as she shambled off to find a more secluded sleeping place. The cubs were taken to a game farm and are being raised on bottles.

FOUND 17 YEARS LATER

FINDLAY, O.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Lawrence Schoonover lost a valuable diamond ring in her back yard 17 years ago and rediscovered it about 35 feet from where she first missed it. The ring was in no way damaged.

New Deal, Armed With 8 Billions, Starts 'Real War' On Depression

COULD you stand the life Barbara Hutton has been living as Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow? So much of the life of the very rich is lived these days before cameramen that news pictures give you a pretty good idea of what it is like. Do they give you a clue why Babs hasn't been agreeing with her Danish Count?

YOU'D EAT HIGH PRICED FOOD in ritzy surroundings and with plenty of attention from waiters if you lived the life of Barbara. Here she and Count Kurt von Haugwitz-Reventlow dine in San Francisco in May, 1935, shortly after their marriage.

YOUR DOG would pose for its portrait by a London artist, as Barbara's pet, Snookie, is doing.

YOUR SON could spend Christmas playing in the snow at St. Moritz. This is Lance, now a little more than two years old.

Count Goes to Court, Promises Not to Molest Barbara or Son

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A spruce but unhappy appearing Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow arrived from France today and won his freedom on 2,000 pound ($10,000) bail when he hustled before a Bow street magistrate on the charge he threatened his wife, the American-born, twice-wed Barbara Hutton, with "bodily harm."

In his brief appearance in court he promised not to interfere with or communicate with her and told the magistrate through his attorney that he was not carrying a pistol.

The gun, he said, was locked up in the Georgian style mansion in Regent's park where the countess has fortified herself and two-year-old son, Lance, behind a guard.

The proceeding was part of the quarrel over the future of the boy, who yesterday was made a ward in chancery—beyond the control of both count and countess.

Returning to England after a three weeks absence to face the countess' charges, the Danish nobleman was met upon his arrival on the Paris boat train by police and his lawyers.

The countess was not in court.

Her specific charge was that he had written a letter "using threats toward his wife whereby she apprehends she goes in danger of her life or bodily harm."

A hearing was scheduled for Tuesday.

Probers Charge Waitresses Drew Straws Before Killing.

WAYCROSS, Ga. —(U.P.)— The slaying of a 10-year-old boy by one of two girls who, directed by the child's father, had drawn straws to see which one would do it, was revealed today by Solicitor General John S. Gibson.

The girls, waitresses in the roadhouse of Harvey Nelson, 40, father of the victim, and Nelson, were under arrest. Gibson said he had obtained a confession from Nelson, which said that he, Verna Mae Clark, 18, and Mary Kent, 17, had plotted to kill the boy, known as "J. C.," in order to collect $900 insurance on his life.

The confession climaxed two months of investigation.

M'CORMICK'S BODY FOUND ON CLIFF'S LEDGE

INDIANS FIND CORPSE

(By United Press)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The body of John Medill McCormick, grandson of Mark Hanna and heir to a publishing fortune, has been found in the wild Sandia mountains, the United States Forest Service announced today.

The discovery ended a search started a week ago when Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, mother of McCormick, became worried when her son and Richard Whitmer, his 20-year-old companion, failed to return from a mountain scaling expedition. They had left home June 22.

Bodies Mile Apart.

Whitmer's body was found last Friday on a ledge on the western shield of Sandia peak. The second body was found on a ledge of the almost vertical wall of the Canon Del Agua, approximately a mile from where Whitmer was killed.

The canon precipice is 1,500 feet high. Foresters said the body would either be raised to the rim or lowered to the floor by ropes. In either case it will have to be carried 10 miles to the nearest road.

Frank C. W. Pooler, regional forest service supervisor, said the body had been found by a party of Sandia and Isleta Indians scouts. Two of the Indians climbed down the difficult ledge and examined the body. Neither knew McCormick, so identification was not positive.

'Practically Certain.'

"However," said Pooler, "we are practically certain that the body is that of Medill McCormick. The body is in such an inaccessible place that it will be impossible to recover it until late Friday."

Pooler refused to speculate on how McCormick, if it is McCormick's body, met death. It also happened that his body was a mile from the place where Whitmer, the more experienced climber of the two had fallen to his death.

The theory was advanced that McCormick may have seen his friend fall and suffered such an emotional shock that he wandered through the mountain range in a dazed condition, later falling to death himself.

DEATH MYSTERY

Movie Cameraman Found Shot to Death at Wheel of Car.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (U.P.) — King Gray, a veteran movie cameraman who was shooting scenes in a mystery thriller at the Universal Studio Thursday, today was the center of a real-life mystery slaying. His body was found at the wheel of his car yesterday.

Gray, 42, had been shot through the chest. Police said it was murder. There was no trace of the gun but the jacket of a fired .32 caliber cartridge was on the car floor. There were no powder burns. His wallet, with its $63, had not been touched.

Gray had been dead for hours when a traffic officer shook his shoulder, thinking he was asleep. The body was stiff and cold. Hundreds of people had passed the car.

The order for the flying fortresses went to the Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle for $3,174,802.

LIQUOR HIGHER

Prices Hiked 8 Cents a Quart to Cover Gallonage Tax Boost.

Mansfield patrons of th city's two state liquor stores found their favorite brands a little higher in price today.

Prices were increased an average of eight cents per quart, and four cents per pint. The increase, general throughout the state, was made because of the recently-enacted federal gallonage tax boost from $2 to $2.25. The state increase, however, boosts prices about 32 cents per gallon.

Talk Over Famous Battle of Gettysburg

Back at Gettysburg, where they fought the bloodiest battle of the Civil war just 75 years ago today, Union and Confederate veterans today talked the struggle over—not as enemies, as they were then, but as "comrades." Vance, 93, of Little Rock, Ark., who also wore the gray of the Confederacy. READY TO SEEK U. S. AID ON GAS

Mayor Considers Putting Case Up to Commission If Ohio Fuel Rejects Contract.

While city council awaited the Ohio Fuel Gas company's answer on the renewal of the present gas rate ordinance for Mansfield, passed nearly a month ago, Mayor Claude M. Hunter today said he was ready to seek the aid of the Federal Power commission in Washington should the contract be rejected by the utility.

The mayor said he would recommend to council that a protest be filed immediately with the commission, which was given broad jurisdiction over the interstate shipment and sale of natural gas n the Natural Gas Act, signed by President Roosevelt 10 days ago.

Under the federal act, the commission can establish the fairness of inter-state gas charges, something the utilities commissions of the various states were unable to do. The federal commission, however, is forbidden to increase gas rates.

In the meantime the Cleveland city council in a special session called today by Mayor Harold H.

"No," was the monosyllabic response.

Muskets Roared 75 Years Ago Today at Gettysburg

2,000 Aging Veterans, Camped on Grounds of Historic Battle, Recall Start of Fight Ending Civil War.

(By International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa.—Three score and 15 years ago, this day brought Gettysburg the beginning of a bloody war's end as today it marked the beginning of another end for 2,000 Civil war veterans—their "last reunion."

Chance brought the rattle of musketry and the clash of saber into Gettysburg streets on July 1, 1863. But today, the 75th anniversary of the first day of fighting, peacetime preparations by state and federal commissions culminated in "reunion day," opening a commemorative week-end for the Blue and the Gray.

Dismal Half Year Ended; Rally Due?

All Barometers Down, But Leaders Hope for Improvement.

At the half-way mark in 1938, Mansfield and Richland county today looked to a general business and industrial upturn during the last half of the year, after surveying six months of backsliding which dropped industrial and retail figures far below last year.

The optimism for better things late in the year is based on the recent stir in the stock market and indications that industry has reached the bottom and must start back again as retailers replenish their stocks.

All Barometers Down.

Virtually every business barometer in the city—bank clearings, building permits, employment figures and new car sales—showed effects in the first half of 1938 of the national recession which started early last fall.

Bank clearings, indicating the amount of business transacted in the city, fell off $18,000,000 during the six months just ended, as compared with the same period last year.

The Mansfield Clearing House association reported clearings of $36,375,113 for the first half of this year and $54,475,417 in 1938. Every month so far this year has shown a decline from the corresponding month in 1938.

Building Down $100,000.

Less seriously hit by the recession, the city's first-half building permits slumped $100,000 from the 1938 figures. Valuation of new buildings in the city for the half-year period this year was $522,255, while in 1937 it was $625,483.

New residence construction this year showed a decline of $132,000, with 53 new homes erected as compared with 67 up to June 30 last year.

Automobile dealers were hard hit by the decline, sales of cars in the county [illegible] less than one-third of last year's figure for the first six months.

Sales of new cars so far this year have totaled 597, while the first half of 1937 produced 1,819 new car sales in the county. Truck sales were 108 for this year and 148 for the first six months of 1937.

Fewer Marriages.

The business and industrial decline even ruined some of Cupid's plans for June, the month of brides, and marriage license applications in county probate court dropped off to 50 last month from 67 in June last year.

The rubber industry has been less affected by the adverse turn in the economic picture, and the

SLAMS HOOVER

Ousted G-Man Says Chief Was 'Jealous' Over Spy Case.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Leon G. Turrou, dismissed from the federal bureau of investigation because he contracted to write a spy expose, charged today that the "jealousy" of J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, was responsible.

Turrou, who was credited with breaking a German espionage ring almost single-handedly, submitted his resignation on June 20 before his writing plans were announced. Subsequently the resignation was refused and he was listed as "discharged with prejudice."

Turrou charged that the only motivation for the pledge G-men were asked to sign to bar such writings was "to protect Mr. Hoover so that he could have exclusive book, magazine articles and movies, for money, for material gain."

Duffy had requested a certified copy of the report to determine whether his office should take action on reported irregular practices in the highway department which the board criticized.

The board's 500-page report was presented to Mrs. Myrna Smith, Davey's personal secretary.

SEE BUSINESS SWING UPWARD BY LABOR DAY

Government Launches 8-Point Program to Supply Jobs to 10 Million Unemployed.

OPTIMISM PREVAILING

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The administration began today what President Roosevelt calls "the real drive on depression."

It was the start of a new fiscal year in which relief agencies, the army and navy, public works departments and federal lending corporations may pour out approximately $8,500,000,000. Some of this money is returnable to the treasury.

Administration officials said this huge sum—equal to more than $66 for every person in the nation—was needed because there were approximately 10,500,000 unemployed in the country. This estimate, furnished by a federal economist, was 4,500 higher than last October, when the recession's effect became visible.

See Upward Swing.

Officials left little doubt they hoped to get business positively on the upgrade by Labor day, although economists estimated it would take a year from the upturn to recover the ground lost since last summer. In that time, the federal reserve board's index of industrial production has fallen [illegible] American history.

Here's what the administration proposes to do with the $8,500,000,000:

1. WPA, whose employment rolls have risen from 1,450,000 last October to 2,735,000, will step up its spending to care for a maximum of about 3,000,000 persons. Compared with the $1,500,000,000 it had in the last 12 months, WPA has $1,425,000,000 for the next eight months.

2. PWA, which spent $216,000,000 in the last year, can spend up to $1,000,000,000 in the new year. It already has allocated $400,828,000 for projects to be started as rapidly as possible in every state and territory.

3. CCC received $286,000,000 to retain its present strength of 300,000 youths and veterans in 1,500 camps, instead of sending more men home to increase unemployment.

Davey Stops In City, Mansfielders Wait In Columbus

While E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic chief, and a group of county party leaders waited at the governor's mansion in Columbus last night for a conference, Gov. Martin L. Davey was having dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The governor stopped here en route home from the Grotto convention in Cleveland. He was accompanied by his escort of highway patrolmen and another couple whose identity could not be learned. Gov. Davey had conferred earlier in the day with senate and house leaders in Cleveland on the relief legislation.

He left Mansfield about 8:30 p. m., just a few minutes before reporters, learning that he was in the city reached the hotel to interview him.

Kallmerten said his party conferred with the governor after he reached Columbus "on campaign matters." In the Richland county group with Kallmerten were Mrs. Mae Lex, secretary of the county executive committee; Mrs Louise M. Reese and Miss Mary Newcomer of the county Young Democratic club.

SHELBY COUNCIL RESUMES STUDY OF GAS RATES

Gives Second Reading to New Proposal After Rejecting Company's Contract.

SHELBY—City council will resume its study of the gas rate ordinance Tuesday night at its regular session in the city hall when the second reading of the new rates submitted by Councilman Charles Swanger will be brought up.

The new rate schedule calls for $1 for the first 1,000 feet, 60 cents a thousand for the next 4,500 feet, and 50 cents a thousand for all in excess of that amount, during the three-year period.

After dropping a "sandbag" five-year contract last month, the first reading of the new ordinance submitted by Swanger was approved by all four councilmen present at the session. Councilman C. E. Morris was absent.

68-Cent Rate Set.

Under the proposed contract with the Ohio Fuel Gas company the 5,000-foot consumer will pay an average of 68 cents a thousand per month, as compared with the 71-cent rate which the same consumer pays now under the fifth year of a five-year "sandbag" contract.

Although gas officials have stated that the company will not accept the new rate if passed, city officials said they expected the new schedule to be given its second reading and to pass its final reading later this month.

The rate submitted by gas officials had passed its first two readings with only Councilmen Swanger and John Chew opposing. Councilmen Kenneth Rothlisberger, C. E. Morris and Chester Bell favored it. The measure was killed at its third reading last month.

HOPE FOR LAST HALF PICK-UP

Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant has been an exception among the city's industries in maintaining its full operation schedule.

The steel industry shows signs of rejuvenation, and because of its close association with other industries, it should start the way back to prosperity by Labor day, government officials predicted today.

About two weeks ago, James E. Hill, president of Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, said the outlook for the steel industry in general was brighter, but declined to predict when the effect of the anticipated upturn might be felt here.

Mansfield industrial leaders forecast at the end of 1937 that business would show little gain until after the middle of the year, and their prediction apparently has been carried out in the present economic picture.

Although they were optimistic in forecasting a gradual upturn by late summer, administration leaders did not expect a return to the levels of early 1937 before another year.

Reflecting the national decline in business and industry, the country's class 1 railroads today reported gross income for the first five months of 1938 of $1,354,268,701, compared with $1,735,221,861 for a similar period last year.

The railroads' greatest decline was in May, when operating income this year slumped to $16,496,701 from $44,239,456 in the same month of 1937.

state line by an escort of state motor police and troopers. Six army tanks were to lead his parade entrance to Gettysburg.

Across this college campus where 75 years ago Ewell's Confederate second corps drove disordered Union troops, modern army field pieces banged out salutes for the arriving dignitaries. Nearby the "two cities" of tents—Union and Confederate—hummed with the banter of aged buddies.

Memories that three-quarters of a century have dulled but a little, turned out tale upon tale of how the July 1 conflict surged from Oak Ridge through the town to Cemetery hill.

On Oak Ridge, not far from where President Roosevelt will dedicate the new "Eternal Peace" memorial on Sunday, a confederate sniper's bullet killed General J. F. Reynolds early that first day.

The Union retreat that began then did not end until dusk, when Yankee lines re-formed in a "fish-hook" front from Culp's hill to little Round Top, overlooking the scene of Picket's "Suicide Charge" two days later.

More than any other, that gallant assault was the core of reminiscence as veterans chatted in the shade of tent flaps.

William Jackaway, 97, of Philadelphia, a member of the 72nd Pennsylvania volunteers, fought at his brother's side in the repulsion of that charge.

He recalled how Picket's men came out of Spangler's woods in "Division Front," skirted a house in left oblique formation, then moved with measured tread toward the waiting Union cannon and muskets.

"I judge we waited 'til they were a square away before we opened fire," said Jackaway who was stationed just on the edge of "Bloody Angle."

"Then we opened canister on them." Canister, the equivalent of modern shrapnel, tore gaps in Picket's line up until it reached to the cannon mouths.

"It was hand to hand fighting from then on," he continued, tracing the battle line with a twig. "As the rebels came up to the wall at Bloody Angle, we shook hands with them to pull them down; that's how close we were.

"General Armistead came across the stone wall himself, got behind us and was killed.

READY TO SEEK U. S. AID ON GAS

Burton, authorized the city administration to appeal to the federal power commission in its fight for a reduction in gas rates Council adopted a resolution which protests against the rate paid by the East Ohio Gas company to the Hope Natural Gas company of West Virginia, a sister corporation.

Cleveland is seeking a reduction from 37.1 cents per thousand cubic feet to 31 cents in the Hope company's rate to East Ohio. Cleveland council in May, 1937, passed a rate ordinance reducing the rates from 57 cents per thousand feet to 55 cents per thousand. The company is attempting to have the rate advanced to 66 cents.

The city's ordinance, calling for the renewal of the present gas rates for Mansfield, was sent to the Ohio Fuel Gas company following its passage by council June 7.

E M Tharp, vice president and general manager of the company, in Mansfield today attending a meeting of district managers of the company at Westbrook Country club, said that the company had given "no consideration" to the ordinance He said the measure did not specify acceptance or rejection within 30 days and that the company "could file for a new rate" with the commission at any time.

The measure sets rates at $1 for the first 500 feet of gas and 50 per thousand for all over that. The company first suggested a rate of 74 cents per thousand to the 500-foot user, but later said it would agree to the present rate of 65 cents per thousand for any number of years if the city would agree to a 74-cent rate for an equal period. Council ignored that proposal.

more ships, including four $70,000,000 battleships. Work will continue on two battleships and 57 other vessels already being built. Construction in this fiscal year will cost $154,000,000.

5. The army will add about 3,000 enlisted men and a few hundred officers to its rolls ,including 1,500 added personnel for the air corps. Both army and navy air corps will buy more planes.

6. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, with a potential loan power of $1,500,000,000 speeded up its loan machinery so that it loaned $80,000,000 to businessmen in four months. Besides probable aid to railroads, the RFC has offered to put up many millions to finance public purchase of private utilities where federal and state power projects, such as TVA, create special problems.

7. Other lending agencies, notably those concerned with home ownership, will continue their operations.

8. The treasury will spend $70,000,000 this year for new federal buildings, mostly postoffices, in every state.

Mart Boom Encourages.

Government economists studying general business conditions have drawn encouragement from the rise in stock market prices, slightly better railroad freight volume, inventory depletion, larger construction contracts, and similar factors.

They point out that some prices which they believed too high, such as steel and building materials, have come down, while quotations on many raw materials that were too low have come up slightly or have stopped sinking.

The treasury, meanwhile, continues to swell the amount of available credit in the banks by redeeming temporarily some of its outstading debts, thus giving the banks cash instead of paper. On June 29, the idle money in banks was estimated at $2,900,000,000.

In the year which ended last night, the treasury had a deficit (not counting debt retirement) of about $1,380,000,000—the smallest in seven years.

Treasury Revises Federal Budget.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Treasury experts prepared a drastically revised budget today which may foreshadow greater spending during the 1939 fiscal greater than in any other year since the World war.

With business conditions — on which government revenues depend—still at low levels, and with the administration's multi-billion dollar recovery drive swinging into full stride, it was estimated unofficially that expenditures will exceed revenues by $4,400,000,000.

Officials admit that many factors in these estimates are speculative. The treasury has not ascertained how much money congress appropriated for the 1939 period. Furthermore, no estimate has been made of prospective income for the year and even such an estimate would be subject to revision depending on business changes in the last half of the year.

Calculating roughly, however, officials said the congressional appropriations for 1939 totaled about $9,400,000,000. Such a figure—assuming that expenditures will be about the same—places the government in the $9,000,000,000 spending class for the first time since 1919.

The treasury has made no estimate of its revenue for the coming year. For the 1938 period income approximately $6,250,000,000—the greatest in history. It was considered possible that revenue may drop to $5,000,000,000 in 1939. This estimate is based on the belief that business condition and modified tax laws enacted by the last congress will curtail income substantially.

CALL FOR BIDS ON WATER TANK AND NEW PUMPS

Officials Take Another Step in Program to Improve Water System.

As the last link in a series of contracts which have been let for the $75,000 Woodland water improvement, city officials today called for bids on the construction of a tank tower and the installation of booster pumps at the Maxwell reservoir.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said that sealed proposals will be accepted at the office of the secretary of the board of control at the city building on the construction work until noon July 25.

150,000-Gallon Tank.

Specifications call for the construction of a 150,000-gallon capacity elevated storage tank, complete with the installation of two booster pumps with a capacity of 275 gallons a minute, with electric controls, pipes and valves.

The tank tower will be erected on city property adjacent to the reservoir in Woodland, while the pumps will be installed in the pump house now located at the base of the reservoir.

Styert said he hoped to have the construction work started Aug. 1, so that the entire job, including the laying of new lines, which is scheduled to be started by WPA Thursday, completed by Nov. 1.

City council two weeks ago authorized the sale of $64,000 in waterworks mortgage revenue bonds, part of which is to finance the construction of the tank tower and booster pumps by private contract.

Lee Drives Back Union Forces In Hot Fight; Seizes Gettysburg as Crucial Battle Opens

(Editor's Note—This is the fourth in a series of seven daily "dispatches" from Gettysburg, written as if the battle had opened today instead of 75 years ago.)

By DR. DOUGLAS S. FREEMAN

Hdqrs. Army of Northern Virginia, Chambersburg Pike, near Gettysburg, Pa., July 1, 1863 (11 P. M.)—Lee's army today won a stunning victory over at least two Federal corps, took almost 5 000 prisoners, occupied the greater part of the town of Gettysburg, and now is preparing for a general battle that may win Southern independence.

The Third corps of the Army of Northern Virginia advanced this morning on the road from Cashtown, followed by the First corps. As the Third corps approached Willoughby Run, it encountered the Federals in force. General A. P. Hill, though sick and enfeebled, ordered Major General Heth to deploy for attack Heth immediately sent forward two brigades, Archer's and Davis's, which for a time pushed on victoriously. Soon they met resistance which proved heavier than had been anticipated The two brigades fought steadfastly for some time but at length had to fall back As they did so, part of Archer's brigade, including its gallant commander, was captured

General Hill thereupon ordered Heth to re-form his line, to give his men a breathing-spell, and then to attack again with the full strength of his division Pender's division was ordered in immediate support

Lee Calls a Halt.

During the lull that followed, General Lee arrived on the field. As Longstreet's corps had not come up, and as Lee had no cavalry with which to feel out the enemy, the commanding general was inclined to break off the engagement and to wait until he had more troops on the field.

At that moment the Federals on the opposing front began to move troops hurriedly to the north of Gettysburg and to draw

General Winfield S. Hancock
Safe Until Nightfall

in the right of the line that was facing west to meet the expected assault of Hill's corps. In a short time, from Lee's position, a long, gray line was seen to be advancing from the north. Everyone knew on the instant that the troops were part of the Second corps, which Lee had ordered to Gettysburg after he had suspended the march on Harrisburg. Providentially, almost miraculously, these infantry, who proved to be Rodes's division, had reached the town precisely when they were needed and they had marched straight toward the exposed flank of the enemy

The Federals, it must be admitted, met Rodes's attack cleverly and with great spirit By some mistake that has not yet been explained, one of Rodes s brigades (Doles's) became separated from the rest of the division O'Neal's brigade lost direction. The burden of the attack fell on Daniel's and Iverson's brigades, which the Federals opposed with much vigor So heavy was the fighting that General Heth wished to renew the attack from the west General Lee preferred, at the moment, to await the arrival of Longstreet

Victory Just Over The Ridge.

Then occurred a second marvel—or, as Confederates would say, another instance of the incredible logistics of "Mars' Robert." At the moment when Rodes's attack was at its most difficult stage, there came a roar of guns from a point beyond Rodes's left flank General Jubal A Early with his division of Ewell's corps had at that moment arrived and had thrown the full weight of his veteran troops against the Federals

The enemy was put in an impossible position His left which ran from south to north, faced Hill, who was ready to resume his advance from the west. The right of the enemy, running from west to east, faced the combined attack of Rodes and of Early. Thus the Federal front formed a right angle, every part of which was exposed to assault.

As soon as this was apparent, General Lee ordered Hill to attack with Heth and Pender. Simultaneously, Rodes and Early bore down from the north. Within forty-five minutes the Unionists were driven from the field in rout and retreated to the hills to the south of Gettysburg. They left close to 5,000 prisoners in the hands of the Confederates, with approximately the same number of dead and wounded on the field

General Lee sent discretionary orders to General Ewell, late in the day, to attack the Federals on the high ground south of the town, and subsequently he rode to the left to confer in person with Ewell and the divisional commanders of the Second corps For some reason, no attack has been delivered there, nor is it certain at this hour whether the final thrust of the Army of Northern Virginia will be directed against that position or against the southern extension of that elevated area, a long and strong sweep of ground called Cemetery Ridge, which the enemy does not appear to have occupied as yet.

Stuart's calvary, which has been on a long and successful raid, at last has reported and will arrive tomorrow.

Conferences and reconnaissances have been underway all evening while the surgeons have been caring for the army of wounded. Tomorrow, the last units of Longstreet's corps should be here With them and with Stuart's cavalry to support the troops that were successful today, victory lies just over Cemetery Ridge.

BULLETIN

Headquarters, Army of the Potomac. Taneytown, Md., July 1, 1863—Our vanguard, meeting the Confederates today at Gettysburg, was forced back by superior strength to Cemetery Ridge, south of the town

Late this afternoon General Winfield S Hancock advised General Meade that the situation was safe until nightfall and that our army could either retire or fight it out Meade has decided to fight it out.

Hancock had succeeded John F. Reynolds, one of our ablest generals, who was wounded mortally when he moved up with two corps to support Buford's cavalry.

Late tonight Meade went to the battlefield himself. Our army as well as Lee's is closing in on Gettysburg.

ROUTE 39 NEAR LUCAS TO GET IMPROVEMENTS

Bids to Be Opened July 19 for Bituminous Treatment Applications.

LUCAS—Plans to improve state route 39 from Lucas east to the Ashland county line were revealed by the state highway department when it was announced that contractors' bids on the project would be opened in Columbus July 19.

The improvement will consist in resurfacing the highway with bituminous treatment "T-31" which has been used extensively all over Ohio in reconditioning state roads.

The two sections of route 39 are included in a group of 12 proposed road improvements in Richland, Ashland, Crawford and Huron counties listed by the highway department.

A section of state route 39 just north of the Mansfield city limits, and several sections of state route 178 in the vicinity of Shiloh are other Richland county roads included among the projects.

Ashland county highways on the state list to be resurfaced include two sections of state route 60, from Hayesville to a point near Ashland; state route 89, from Jeromesville to Mohicanville; and state route 179, from Mohicanville south to the county line.

The projects also include a section of state route 61 in Crawford county, and sections of state routes 59, 194 and 289 in Huron county.

PASTOR RESIGNS

LUCAS — The resignation of Rev. M. G. Bishop, pastor of the Mt. Zion and Mifflin Lutheran churches for the past ten years, was announced at the close of the church services in both congregations last Sunday.

In presenting his resignation, Rev. Bishop stated that he had accepted a call to become pastor of the Tuscarawas Lutheran parish. The resignation becomes effective on July 18th.

The Tuscarawas parish, comprising three congregations, is located in central Tuscarawas county.

Rev. Bishop entered upon his pastorate of the Mt. Zion and Mifflin parish on May 20, 1928, soon after graduating from Hamma Divinity school in Springfield. He is also a graduate of Wittenberg college.

During his residence here Rev. Bishop has been active in community affairs in both the Lucas and Mifflin communities, and extensive improvements have been completed on both church properties and at the parsonage located near the Mt. Zion church.

Members of the Mt. Zion and Mifflin joint council are expected to meet at an early date to select a new pastor.

CITY GETS BID

Officials Invited to Attend Recreation Congress.

City officials today had received an invitation to attend the 23rd annual national recreation congress which will be held at Pittsburgh, Oct. 3-7.

In a letter to Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Mayor Cornelius D. Sculley of Pittsburgh, asked that a number of delegates be appointed by the mayor to attend the sessions.

"I would like to have you appoint a number of delegates to represent your city, in order to help mold public opinion in behalf of the extension of public recreation," Mayor Sculley wrote.

He pointed out that the congress deals with various phases of public recreation, playgrounds, community centers, public parks, beaches, and other leisure time activities, which he said are becoming an important part of municipal affairs.

LEGISLATURE TO O. K. INADEQUATE NEEDY AID PLAN

Lawmakers Set to Approve Program Leaving Larger Cities in Want.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS — (AP)—The Ohio house passed the first of a series of bills in a compromise relief program today, voting 92 to 21 for permitting local subdivisions to borrow against 1939 liquor and beer permit fees.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—An admittedly inadequate poor relief program for the rest of 1938 shaped up for enactment in the Ohio legislature today but leaders contended it was the best that the seven-weeks-long, strife-marked special session could produce.

Leaders acknowledged that at least five counties—Cuyahoga, Lucas, Montgomery, Clark and Trumbull—would not receive enough to pay their relief costs until the end of the year unless they had unexpected success in raising funds locally or their rolls of needy persons dropped sharply.

Large municipalities' representatives also insisted that, while the legislature would require dollar for dollar matching of state grants, the special session had not given urban centers sources to raise the revenue.

Acceptance by the Democratic majority in the house yesterday of a compromise, arranged earlier by Speaker Frank Uible and Senate Majority Leader Keith Lawrence, both of Cleveland, paved the way for breaking the deadlock in which sessions ended last week.

Agrees to Lift Ban.

House Democrats imposed only one condition, that the senate agree to delete from one bill a clause which would have barred federal-local works projects from erecting publicly-owned utility plants to compete with private firms. Uible said he was informed the upper house would accede.

The rest of the program called for raising from 70 to 80 per cent the limit on counties' "borrowing" this year against 1939-41 revenues from state relief taxes. The senate earlier insisted on the 70 per cent maximum while the house wanted a 90 per cent top

The house leadership also agreed to push through bills authorizing local subdivisions to issue notes against delinquent tax collections and to anticipate for 1938 relief needs a portion of next year's revenues from liquor and beer permits

Both houses agreed last week on a measure giving a state relief director, with the state auditor, broad powers over relief expenditures by local communities.

WON'T HELP CITY

Under an 80 per cent borrowing plan, Richland county would receive $92,000 for relief, but would be required to match that amount themselves. Officials have already stated that although the $184,000 would be sufficient for relief work for the balance of the year, they are unable to meet the matching provisions of the legislation, and therefore will not be benefitted by its passage.

GAS TAXES INCREASE

COLUMBUS — (AP) — State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley reported today Ohio's gasoline tax collections for the first six months of 1938 totalled $22,716,876 or $309 more than for the corresponding period last year

CUTS ESTIMATE

Crop Expert Says Wheat Yield to Be Lower Than Forecast.

CHICAGO—(UP)—Mrs. E. H. Miller of Shields & Company, has forecast a domestic wheat crop of 929,000,000 bushels, a drop of 150,000,000 bushels from the average private estimate a month ago.

Mrs. Miller, one of the nation's foremost private crop experts, said she had reduced her previous estimate because of damage from early spring frosts which just now is appearing, black rust and excessive rain in the winter wheat belt at harvest time and danger of drought in the northern spring wheat areas.

The total corn yield was estimated at 2,486,000,000 bushels this year as compared to 2,645,000,000 a year ago.

OPENS CUT-OFF BIDS TOMORROW

State Highway Department Gets Figures on Windsor Paving.

The state highway department is scheduled to open bids Saturday for the construction of the Windsor cut-off on route 42 between Mansfield and Ashland.

Launched four years ago, the paving project has been delayed a number of times because of insufficient funds and right-of-way difficulties.

Estimated cost of the project is $280,000, with the cost to be shared by the federal government and state highway department.

The strip of highway, which is 3.59 miles long, will cut off a mile and a half from the distance between Mansfield and Ashland and eliminate a number of dangerous curves.

WEEKLY SIGNS AS SCHOOL HEAD

BUTLER—Supt. Willard Weekly, head of the Butler schools for the past year, has announced that he will accept the three-year contract offered him by the Butler board of education at its meeting in June.

When he was re-employed by the board several weeks ago, Weekly asked to be allowed a short time to consider the position. It is reported that he rejected offers from other school boards in deciding to remain at Butler.

Supt. Weekly came to Butler from Cheshire where he served as superintendent for several years.

ORGANIZE CLUB, SUPPORT DAVEY

200 Mansfield Hungarians Form Political-Social Group.

A group of 200 Mansfield Hungarians completed organization plans for the Mansfield Hungarian political club last night and endorsed Gov. Martin L. Davey for a third term at their initial meeting.

Meeting at the German Society hall on Orange street the newly organized club elected as its president Alexander Jona, and as secretary-treasurer Frank Seelak.

The club, which plans to take an active part in the coming political campaign, will meet next week to elect trustees and outline plans for its primary work.

Sees School Bonds Adding Less Than Mill to Tax Bill

The proposed $550,000 bond issue for Mansfield's school building program will require a tax levy of not more than .9 of a mill for 20 years, Supt. W. L. Miller said today after conferring with county officials and school board members.

"The additional school district levy, if the bond issue is approved by voters at the August election, will not be more than .9 of a mill and may be as low as .7 of a mill," Miller said.

Approval of the state tax commission of the board's request to submit the bond issue to a vote Aug. 9 was expected today. The application was filed with the commission several days ago.

If the bond issue is approved, funds provided by their sale will supplement an anticipated $450,000 PWA grand for the construction of two junior high school buildings and additions and improvements to other buildings in the city.

2 DIE, 10 HURT IN BUS CRASH

Blinding Rain Blamed For Fatal Michigan Crash.

PONTIAC, Mich. — (INS) — A blinding rainstorm today was blamed by police for the death of two persons and injuries to ten others in a collision between a coupe and a bus north of here last night.

Dead are Mrs. Edith Parker, 40, Flint, and G. H. Lunt, 40, of New York, an adding machine salesman.

Mrs. Parker and Lunt were riding in her car when it swerved over to the opposite side of the road in the blinding rain, directly into the path of the oncoming bus, colliding with it head-on. The injured included: Floyd Owen, Lorain, O.

Youth Accused in Traffic Death Leaves Jail.

Richard Strohminger, 19, of 202 Newman street, who is awaiting grand jury action on a charge of manslaughter in the traffic death of Miss Ada Kovachy, Cleveland, was released from the county jail yesterday when six friends provided $2,000 bond for him.

The youth had been in the city and county jails since June 11 when the fatal accident occurred at the city limits on Lexington avenue. His case will be heard by the grand jury probably during the week of July 11, county authorities said.

A first degree manslaughter charge was filed against him after the automobile he was driving collided head-on with a car in which Miss Kovachy and four other persons were riding. Miss Kovachy's three sisters, who were in the car, were injured.

ABSENT VOTER CHECK ORDERED

Secretary of State Calls for Rigid Inspection By Boards.

A more rigid check on absent voters' ballots was ordered today by Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, as he launched a drive to "clear up confusion" in absentee voting.

In a letter to the Richland county board of elections, Kennedy said all applications for absent voters' ballots must be made to the clerk of the election board, either in person or in writing.

Where applications are submitted by mail, the signature of the applicant must be the same as that on his registration card, A. F. Porter, clerk of the county board, said.

SUIT FOLLOWS REPORT ON OHIO HIGHWAY PROBE

Taxpayer Asks $500,000 in Action Charging Contracts Were Illegal.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — A $500,000 taxpayer's suit, apparently based in part upon the finding of Governor Davey's highway department investigating committee, was filed in Franklin county common pleas court today.

The suit sought to recover money allegedly paid illegally to the Ohio Road Improvement company, Columbus contracting firm, and involved seven contracts granted the firm for road construction in Jefferson, Wayne, Portage, Summit, Tuscarawas and Ashland counties.

Benjamin F. Levinson, Columbus attorney, filed the suit on behalf of Donald L. Littell, a taxpayer. The suit alleged that highway officials deliberately failed to include provision for widening in road contracts granted the Ohio Road Improvement company and H. B. Fenton, a contractor, and later awarded illegal contracts for the widening to the two firms.

The suit named Highway Director John Jaster, jr.; assistant Director G. Murray Anderson; Fred L. Biechele, former director of the bureau of maintenance; Harry Sharp, highway division engineer; B. H. Frasch, present head of the maintenance bureau; Karl L. Rothermund, highway planning engineer; State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson; Richard Shafer, president of the Ohio Road Improvement company, and Fenton, as defendants.

Says Action Deliberate.

The petition charged that "highway officials in order to illegally, unlawfully and fraudulently pay out of the treasury of the state of Ohio a large sum of money to the defendants, H. B. Fenton and Richard Shafer, deliberately failed to provide for the widening of the highways designated in the contracts (awarded) . . . between April 12 and June 20, 1937."

"Thereafter . . . in direct violation of law and without advertising for bids and at a cost to exceed $3,000 per mile (they) entered into supplemental contracts with the defendants, H. B. Fenton and Richard Shafer . . . " the petition continued.

The arrangement "to defraud and cheat" taxpayers was in total disregard of the law and without regard to the fair value of the work, it stated.

The petition argued that the two firms "were not satisfied with the high and exorbitant price they were receiving from the state in the illegal contracts . . . and attempted to furnish inferior or other material."

Approximately $30,000 is still owed on the contracts and the petition asked a temporary restraining order withholding payment of this amount to the Shafer firm.

Application for the restraining order will be heard July 7 by Judge Charles A. Leach.

KILLERS WEEP AS DEATH NEARS

Soutnern Desperadoes Pray Too Before Last Walk.

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—North Carolina's most notorious desperadoes of recent times, Bill Payne and Wash Turner, spent their last few hours today weeping and praying.

Prison officials set the time for their asphyxiation at between 10:30 and 11 p. m. today.

Payne and Turner, partners in crime for a decade, were convicted of slaying George Penn, a state highway patrolman, in a chase near Asheville, last summer.

G-Men captured them at Sanford five months later. The pair was charged with a score of other crimes.

SIX ENTOMBED

One Killed, Aids Trapped in Alabama Mine Cave-in.

PRACO, Ala — (UP) — One man was killed and six others were trapped alive in a cave-in today at the Praco Coal mine of the Alabama By-products company.

The cave-in occurred 3,000 feet below the surface of the earth, reports reaching the mining company's headquarters said.

Rescue crews dug feverishly to reach the entombed men and reported they could hear their voices faintly through a barrier of rock and debris.

DAVEY HIRES 520

Special Police Employed for Steel Strike, Kennedy Says.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The U. S. senate civil liberties committee received today a report showing that Gov. Martin L. Davey appointed 520 special railroad policemen from May 1 to Aug. 1, 1937, during the "little steel" drive.

Secretary of State William J. Kennedy disclosed last night that he submitted the report at the request of Robert Wohlforth, the committee's secretary.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

THE SMITHY

AT A crossroads town in the hilly country, just beyond the corner store, I saw an old-time blacksmith shop. It stood under a tall elm. The roof had oak lap shingles, the siding was old and tattered; some boards on the western side had half their thickness worn away by wind and rain.

The ancient doors were open. I entered and saw a well-built muscular blacksmith at his forge, moving the lever up and down that made the bellows blow. He watched intently the iron he had in the fire and as he added some fresh coal the flames lit up the darkened roof and made a bright reflection from the roaring forge.

I saw sharp, shooting, bursting sparks bound from the white-hot furnace. Then the blacksmith took a long-handled tongs, held the horseshoe tight, and caught the long end of another piece of iron he had placed in the fire, brought them quickly together amid a shower of sparks. The semi-molten toe of the horseshoe was on the anvil, the white-hot end of the iron he held upon it. The two pieces stuck like paste, and with his heavy hammer he shaped them as one piece. The cooks were not worn so much and thus the discarded shoe was made useful again.

In the dark corners I saw broken wagon wheels. Old tires like heavy hoops, hung from a rustic peg. A farmer rode up on a heavy draft horse, bareback, dismounted and in[illegible] his horse shod.

My father had a blacksmith shop beside a fast-flowing spring. Here neighbors used to bring their wagons to be repaired, their horses to be shod. As lads, my brother and I spent many pleasant hours watching our father work and wishing for the time when we might be big and strong enough to try our hand.

The smithy will never stand under spreading chestnut trees again, or hold the prosperous useful place it did in years gone by. The blight has killed the chestnut trees, the modern garage has crowded out the smithy.

SURVEY SHOWS 30-CENTURY USE OF MARIHUANA

History of Weed Traced in Connection With General Drive by Government.

(By United Press)

NEW ORLEANS—Criminality and insanity in many cases spring from use of marihuana, a study of the drug's history reveals.

J. Skelly Wright, assistant U. S district attorney, who is co-operating in the Federal-state drive to ban the weed, found that for 30 centuries the "muggle" has been used. Smoking on a large scale is comparatively new in the United States Wright explained.

The marihuana weed can be grown in flower gardens with little fear of it being detected With this condition prevailing and with the sudden and terrible effects of the weed, Wright stressed the difficulties in stamping out its use

"Within 30 minutes," he said, the crude cigaret rolled by a marihuana smoker can transform a normal person into a raving maniac who obeys every impulse arising from current or previous suggestion."

Appeared In Ancient Asia.

In Asia Minor and India, where its influence first was felt, priests 3,000 years ago used various forms of the weed to induce religious frenzy, Wright said the study revealed.

Centuries ago royal families drank "bhang," which was a mixture of honey and water with marihuana added to it for a "kick."

Although the drug was introduced in Western Asia more than 3,000 years ago, it was not until 1845 that a French doctor made a detailed study of its effects and the relation between "hashish" excess and insanity.

Since then, according to Wright, use of the weed has spread over the entire world In the United States "killers for hire" smoke a "muggle" or two to boster their nerve.

Wright does not, believe that continued smoking of marihuana will produce addiction, as the use of opium or heroin.

"But it will produce a craving," he said, "not unlike that of a tobacco smoker for cigarets."

What a person does under the influence of the weed, Wright said, is determined partly by his racial, physiological and emotional background.

Pattern Not Universal.

But even then "muggle" smoking does not affect along a given pattern.

"Afflicted with hallucinations of terrifying extent," Wright said, "he is liable to run amok, leaving a trail of crime—even murder—in his wake."

Case after case in which criminals have admitted smoking "muggles" indicates this is true, according to Wright.

And after the crime is over, Wright said, and the effects of the marihuana die off, the smoker's mind is usually blank of all that happened in the meantime and his confessions cannot be depended upon.

Eventually, continued smoking brings on complete mental collapse and insanity for which there may be no cure, according to Wright.

SHELTER GAME

7,951,937 Acres in U. S. Used as Wild Life Sanctuaries.

WASHINGTON— (UP) —Wildlife sanctuaries in the United States have been nearly doubled in extent during the last two years, the interior department reports, and now total 7,951,937 acres.

Another 4,064,104 acres have been set aside in Alaska, bringing the grand total to approximately 12,000,000 acres.

The 1,968,000-acre desert game range in Nevada and the 1,033,647-acre Fort Peck game range in Montana are the two largest feeding and breeding grounds for wild animals created since 1936. An antelope refuge of 273,000 acres in the Hart Mountain region of Oregon also was established.

Scattered from corner to corner of the country, 30 migratory bird and waterfowl refuges were created, the largest of which is the Sabine Refuge in Louisiana, containing 143,110 acres.

HYMNS CHOSEN

512 Selected by Evangelical and Reformed Churches.

COLUMBUS— (AP) —Two hundred and thirty-four evangelical hymns and 278 from the Reformed church have been selected for publication in a new hymnal by the Evangelical and Reformed church, in biennial convention here.

The Evangelical and Reformed churches merged in 1934. A committee which made the hymn selections reported that tradition, history and "singability" were considered.

Convention delegates contributed to a special collection to reimburse Dr. Jacob G. Leonard, Lexington, N. C., delegate, who reported to police that his pocket had been picked of $60 Sunday night as he attended a special church service.

ROCK "TURNS TURTLE"

FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1938.

This is a "land of promise"—especially when there's a campaign on.

An effort is now being made to bring the Star Spangled Banner within the reach of all.

Under the New Deal it became increasingly difficult to make the circus roustabout understand that he couldn't be paid as much as the star performers.

The People Have a Right to Know.

TWO happenings of this week must be treated seriously by the people of Ohio, irrespective of politics.

Seven men who are prominently identified with the state administration have been indicted by a special grand jury on charges of soliciting or receiving campaign funds from civil service workers.

A board of inquiry, appointed by Governor Davey, reports finding glaring irregularities in the conduct of the state highway department, with evidence of favoritism, price-rigging and "either collusion or gross negligence."

There has been much talk, during the past several months, of a 5 per cent "shakedown" of civil service employes to create a campaign fund for Governor Davey's third-term race.

Thomas E. Dye, assistant state purchasing agent, one of the men indicted, is quoted as terming the indictments "a lot of damn nonsense—just a lot of foolishness worked up by the newspapers and fool politicians."

The report of the capable professors and engineers who made up the board of inquiry into methods employed by the state highway department bears out findings of the senate investigating committee several months ago and strengthens widespread suspicion that the highway department has been involved in many shady transactions through which Ohio taxpayers have lost millions of dollars.

Reflection, of course, is upon Governor Davey and his administration of the state's business. He has frequently expressed complete confidence in his lieutenants and has been inclined to blame various Ohio newspapers for what he has termed "malicious persecution."

There should be no inclination to "maliciously persecute" Governor Davey, or even to adversely criticize his administration without justification.

There should be an insistent demand, however, by the people of Ohio, that there be quick determination of the truth or falsity of charges made against men and departments prominently identified with this state administration, so that the public may be aware of true conditions without further delay.

An Insurance Agent De Luxe.

AN article in this week's Saturday Evening Post is attracting more than ordinary attention and comment.

It is entitled "Jimmy's Got It," and has to do with the remarkable success of James Roosevelt, son of the President, in selling insurance. His income from the insurance business is estimated at from $250,000 to $2,000,000 a year, in addition to which he is one of his father's secretaries. Not bad, with so many people on relief.

There is the implication, of course, that "Jimmy" might not have so many people flocking to him to buy insurance were it not for the fact that his Dad is president.

If, by any chance, it is through influence, rather than sales ability, that James is doing so well in the insurance business, it must be quite embarrassing to the president of the United States, who, while governor of New York, wrote: "It is not illegal for a relative of a political leader to be in the surety business. It is not illegal for a contractor to get his bonds through this relative. Yet the whole business is indefensibly unethical."

So Jimmy must be just unusually adept at selling insurance, that's all.

What About Lottery for Relief?

NEED for relief money is the humanitarian motive presented as being back of Cleveland's idea of establishing a municipal game of chance which might be mistaken for a lottery—if lotteries weren't in violation of Ohio law.

Common in the early days of this country, and still operated in some other countries, legal banning of lotteries has long been regarded as a forward step, although sporadic efforts have since been made to legalize various forms of gambling.

However strong the argument may be that "people will gamble anyhow," and that the government might as well cut in on the profits, a more general impression seems to be that gambling is a rather definitely outside-the-law activity in which decency forbids cities, states or the federal government having any part.

It appears to be Cleveland's idea to develop something of a cross between the door prize and bank night ideas of luring dollars from that part of the public which is alway hopeful of finding a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Farm Revolution.

THE STORY is told of a gentleman-farmer—primarily a stock broker—who at a dinner party in happier days announced to his guests that he was about to serve them the most expensive beverage in the world. Then the servants poured into crystal goblets pitchers of milk from his private dairy farm. The guests saw the point. He said it cost him $10 a glass.

They tell of a New York business man, too, with a farm in Vermont, who would ask his guests whether they preferred milk or champagne, adding that they cost him the same.

That sort of thing is less common than it used to be. The depression and recession have wiped out so many gentlemen's farms that farm products are getting down to market prices, while elaborate stables and orchards are turned into philanthropic institutions. And the city farmers nowadays are mostly small business men, white collar workers and factory employes who commute in flivvers and till an acre or two for family provisions.

At least we are spared the chagrin of knowing how future historians will regard the "statesmanship" of this period.

"When a robber points a gun at you," advises J. Edgar Hoover, "keep cool"—probably aided by a cold chill.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Ironically enough, it would happen that the worst railroad accident in a dozen years should occur on the troubled Milwaukee, which now is undergoing reorganization in federal court. The result may be an increase in the entangling complications growing out of damage suits which always follow these affairs.

Repair crews usually are only one jump ahead of lawyers for the injured and claims agents for the railroad, so that on top of its other legal troubles the Milwaukee will be dickering for many days with claims more by the three-score injured and relatives of the more than two score who were killed when the train crashed through a flood-weakened bridge in Montana.

One possible outcome of the accident is that any person entitled to damages may find his hands filled with railroad securities issued in lieu of cash awards. More likely, payments will be made in cash.

The Interstate Commerce Commission keeps its eyes on these things but the federal court in which the railroad receivership is pending is largely responsible for deciding how and when payments are to be made.

It's Up to Court.

WHEN a railroad is in court for purposes of reorganization, as is the Milwaukee, the court decides whether injury claims shall be paid right away or be listed behind other creditors.

There are two elements to encourage claimants in recent years. First, courts frequently put claims of accident victims well to the front, far ahead of bond holders and like creditors. Often injury claims are classified as current expenses, which means that the court will permit the company to pay them at once. Second, one competent authority here says court awards for injuries or deaths on railroads have been growing more liberal in recent years, causing the lines to settle more often without court fights.

Damages for employes injured or killed in the wreck must by law be paid early but there is nothing in the law to prevent a court holding up payment to passengers until the reorganization is complete, which might be years.

The Interstate Commerce Commission never has compelled railroads to carry insurance on their passengers. The railroads have enough property, as a rule, to guarantee payment.

They Carry Insurance.

A DIFFERENT ruling applies to bus lines. The ICC requires bus companies to carry as much as $5,000 insurance for each passenger, with a top of $50,000 on buses carrying 31 passengers. Some bus companies are allowed, in lieu of insurance, to file a surety bond to guarantee payment of injury claims.

Airlines, like the railroads, are not required to carry insurance on their passengers, but numbers of them do voluntarily. All are required to make a showing of financial responsibility satisfactory to the bureau of air commerce.

Several airlines follow the plan of the railroads and offer passengers $5,000 of insurance for 25 cents. Sometimes, the insurance is for the whole trip, say from Washington to Chicago. Other lines provide that the 25 cents worth of insurance lasts only four hours or so.

All three transportation agencies are willing to have these matters of insurance and accident liability tucked far into the background. It hurts business.

As a matter of cold turkey, the chances are thousands to one that anybody starting a journey by train, bus or plane will get to the end of it unhurt.

VICTORY AT GETTYSBURG!

Wage-Hour Decision In Two Years

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Decision on the constitutionality of the wages and hours regulation law is expected by Washington lawyers to be handed down by the supreme court in October, 1940, during the closing days of the presidential campaign!

Under the 120-day provision of the bill, providing that it shall go into effect that long after its enactment, the law will go into force in October, of this year. Lawyers figure that it will take two years, at a minimum, to get a case through the lower courts, up to the supreme court, and allow the high bench a reasonable time to consider it. They think that the minimum is about right to forecast, instead of a longer period, for the reason that every ounce of pressure possible will be put on to expedite this test.

All of which might not be so important were it not for the emphasis laid by President Roosevelt in his recent radio address to the country on the issues now confronting the country. As most politicians see it, he was clearly drawing the line of the campaign, not only for this year's primaries and elections, but for those two years hence. The question that the president would have the voters apply to every candidate for office is whether he is a "liberal" or not. Rather obviously, the president means by a "liberal" one who agrees with his own views. One who differs from the president is not.

* * *

ALL this is rather confusing when applied to this year's candidates. The rules that seems to be governing, in the "purge" drive to rid the senate and house of certain Democrats no longer wanted in official life by the administration, is: Where did he stand on the president's proposal to enlarge the supreme court?

Admittedly, that was the only reason the administration tried so hard to defeat Senator Guy M. Gillette, in Iowa. The Missouri situation is interesting, but proves nothing. There the fact that Senator Bennett Champ Clark is so strong, plus the fact that the Pendergast machine in Kansas City intends to support him, makes a battle unwise. And the president is more interested in "winning a war than winning a battle."

* * *

OBVIOUSLY the type of senator the administration would be most anxious to defeat is Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland. He has been voting against the president consistently. He agrees on the budget and spending with the senators from his neighbor state of Virginia. He voted against most of the alphabetical agencies, starting off with N. R. A., including A. A. A., and not even skipping T. V. A.

In an attack on him in his opening campaign speech, Representative David J. Lewis, who is running as a 100 per cent Roosevelt supporter, quoted the following from the 1936 Democratic platform:

" 'We hold this truth to be self evident—that government in a modern civilization has certain inescapable obligations to its citizens, among which are: (1) Protection of the family and the home; (2) Establishment of a democracy of opportunity for all the people; (3) Aid to those overtaken by disaster.' "

Lewis cited the various anti-Administration votes of Tidings to prove that he was violating a platform which, Lewis insisted, had been approved by Maryland by a majority of 158,000.

Lewis also ridicules Tydings' fears about the piling up of 16½ billions of additional debt by the Roosevelt administration. This is only $1.58 a month for each wage earner for 25 years, says Lewis, scornfully.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Parity In Vote Buying.

By GUS W. DYER
Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

In any election worthy of the name, parity between the contesting parties with reference to rights and privileges is absolutely essential. A new type of disparity in elections has been developed that is hazardous to the very foundation of elections, as well as destructive to democratic government. This disparity must be removed or elections will become a farce.

The administration, over all sorts of protests, has established relief centers in every community in the land, and through its appointed agents is distributing billions of dollars in relief gifts.

Certain quotations are here given that may throw some light on the political nature of this "relief." The first quotation is from two letters received by a WPA worker in Missouri: "Please do not report back to WPA work." "This is to advise you that I am willing to help you get back on this job. . . provided that you are willing to take a better attitude toward the administration. This was the cause of your lay-off by order of a higher authority."

The second quotation is taken from a letter written by Judge Brady M. Stewart of Kentucky to President Roosevelt: "Every federal relief agency," says Judge Brady, "is frankly and brazenly operating on a political basis."

The third quotation is taken from Senator Clark of Missouri. With reference to the public endorsement of an administration candidate in Iowa by Harry Hopkins, the head of public relief, Senator Clark said: "This was the same as saying to relief workers: 'If you don't vote for the administration candidate you will lose your jobs. If you vote against this candidate your families may go hungry.'"

Administration officials have not asked for any investigation of these serious charges and congress has done nothing to make an investigation.

To the end that parity may be restored between contesting groups in elections with reference to rights and privileges, congress is hereby requested to repeal all laws against vote buying and vote selling. Congress is further requested to enact such legislation as may be necessary to permit those who oppose the administration to establish a nationwide political relief organization. This organization will be supported by voluntary contributions from patriotic American citizens, and not by assessments made on taxpayers against their wills.

It is planned by those who are promoting this organization to raise at least 100 million dollars as an operating relief fund. This is a very large fund, but it will be necessary to have a very large fund, since the government, under present-day interpretations of the constitution, seems to have the authority to raid property owners at will and take from them any amount of their property that the administration may consider necessary to carry out its political purposes. No sort of parity could be established with a smaller fund in competition with the administration and parity is the essential objective.

This private relief organization, like the administration, will establish distributing centers in every community in the land for the purpose of making gifts to millions of voters under the name of "relief." All of the private organizations will be in charge of men and women who are opposed to the administration, and this fact will be made plain to the recipients of the gifts.

If a private fund is raised that is large enough to make the private relief gifts as large as those of the administration it is believed that approximately one-half of the 20 million relief voters may be induced to vote for the candidates that oppose the administration. If this can be achieved parity will be re-established in national elections, and vital issues can be determined on their merits.

It is admitted that this is an extremely costly and an uncivilized way to establish parity in elections, since the unfortunate taxpayers must finance both sides in this nationwide vote buying contest, but there is no other way out under the super-humanitarian ethical system established by the administration.

Should We Have an American Sweepstakes?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

AMERICAN SWEEPSTAKES? "YES," says Beverly A. Wood and Cliff White. Swoosh! Away they go, every year—great ships, loaded to the Plimsoll mark with American dollars—

BOUND FOR THE IRISH SWEEPSTAKES!

An annual flood of gold, drained from American pockets—mounting, every year, in volume—returning only a pittance of its treasure to the land from which it was sent.

So—what about it? Should we go on sending our treasure to the little green isle? Or should we resolve to—"BET AMERICAN"? And institute a sweepstake of our own?

There's a question which is agitating every gopher hole in the U. S. A....with Pros and Cons flying thicker 'n mosquitoes. Moral? Immoral? That's up to you to decide. But here are two Young Americans who vote heartily for the idea. Says Cliff White of Oakland, Cal.—

Dear Miss Robinson:

For years the United States has enforced a ban on lotteries, both foreign and domestic. Yet millions of dollars are illegally sent to foreign countries for payment on lottery tickets.

Why not spend American dollars in America by legalizing a national lottery under government control?

The hospitals of Ireland are supported by the revenues collected by its government from the sale of sweepstake tickets. If this be so, why cannot our government also conduct a sweepstakes—for instance, on the Kentucky Derby, recognized as the greatest turf classic in this country?

The purpose of this lottery would be for the maintenance of Infantile Paralysis institutions. This would be a worthy cause and the public in general would welcome and wholeheartedly support it. Furthermore, instead of procuring a lottery ticket by illegal means and with a sense of guilt, this situation would be reversed. Instead of a gamble, it would be a guarantee of health and happiness for these poor unfortunates."

Cliff White, 27 yrs.,
Oakland, Cal.

Dear Elsie—

Everywhere I find people talking about Government Lotteries and, although the basic idea is gambling, I don't believe it would be immoral. If it were a monthly affair at $1 a ticket, I for one would be more than willing to risk $12 a year on the chance of winning some day. Everyone spends money for candy, gum or cigarets, and they would probably stint a little on these small luxuries for the sake of a profitable wager.

This wouldn't just be a selfish investment. Such lotteries would help the government with its unemployment problem, for there would be a great need of printers, mail clerks, paper, etc. And why not use some of the men now on relief as salesmen?

No one would be afraid of a "crooked deal" with the government sponsoring it, the government should make a good deal of profit. Some optimists even think it would enable them to reduce taxes in a few short years. It may not do that—but just WHY are so many against it—I'd like to know.

(Miss) Beverly A. Wood,
Los Angeles, Cal.

WHY IS GAMBLING CONSIDERED IMMORAL? Because anything is immoral which takes the UP-AND-AT-EM OUT OF LIFE, youngster. The fact that we may lose our money in gambling, or make the other fellow lose his, is of little consequence. BUT THE FACT THAT WE BOTH ARE SITTING BACK AND LEAVING EVERYTHING UP TO LADY LUCK IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT. Gambling is bad for the same reason that day dreams or drink or drug addiction is bad — THEY ARE ESCAPES FROM ACTION AND REALITY.

The greatest prize in life is not the Irish Sweepstakes....BUT YOUR OWN GROWTH. And you don't grow when you invest in a lottery ticket — you just sit around. Which may be a worthy use of life if you're a barnacle or a clam. But for a human being, it's certainly a sucker's choice of a program.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—They talk a picturesque lingo in the Black Belt, a "jive" so odd that only your true Harlemese understands it. "Jive" for instance means lingo or speech. It is an instinctive speech, almost an unknown tongue and peculiar only to the New York negro.

Say, for example, you are walking along Lenox avenue and you hear someone say:

"The chic's schmaltz, but she's a V-S." This menas: "The girl is sweet and sentimental but she's unapproachable."

Well, Cab Calloway decided to do something about it. Cab is a "hep cat." And a hep cat is one who is in the know, a thoroughly wise guy, and Cab reasoned: "Maybe I ought to spread the gospel of our jive. . . Maybe I ought to wise up everybody, so they can understand what we are talking about . . . . But how'll I do it? . . . You can't just pick it up in a day or a week. . . . You can't just tell it. . . . So I think I'll edit me a dictionary. . . . A hepster's dictionary. . . .

* * *

SHORTLY thereafter a neat little brochure entitled "Cab Calloway's Cat-ologue" was deposited on your correspondent's desk. And it's quite a cat. Here are some of the weird me'ows of the Harlem jive:

"That canary is beat to my socks"—that crooner is lacking in everything.

A "clambake" means every man for himself. . . A "boogie-woogie" is heavy brass harmony . . . To "cool" means to lay off between jobs. . . A "kill-diller" is a thrill. . . . "Fine dinner" means a good looking girl . . .Anything "kopasetic" is absolutely okay. . . A gal with a "main on the hitch" is with her husband. . . .

A "twister to the slammer" means a key to the door . . If they call you a "rug cutter" they mean you are a very good dancer. . . . People who smoke "reefers" or marihuana cigarettes are "vipers." "Tea" is also a term for reefers, and a "teapad" is a rendezvous where the weed is smoked.

"Salty" means angry or mad. . . . A "roach" is a reefer-butt, or a short . . . "Two cents" is $2 . . And "truck on down" is go somewhere. . . . If a girl is "togged to the bricks" she's dressed to kill, from head to foot. . . "Ofay" is a white person . . . A "pad" is a bed . . An "off time jive" is a sorry excuse. . . . And a "fraughty issue" is a very sad message . . . "Early bright" means early morning . . . "Early black," early evening.

* * *

"KILL me" means to show me a good time. . . A "fog-horn" is a saxophone . . . "Focus" is to look . . . If a dame "iggs" you, she ignores you. . . . And anybody "hincty" is conceited or snooty.

Curiously enough there is no jive for swing music, but if you are a swing fan you are an "alligator." . . . A "blip buddy ghee with his boots on" is a very good fellow who knows what it's all about.

And that brings me back to where I was in the first place—in a quandary . . . Even after using Cab's book as a shoehorn I can't get my boots on . . I still don't know what it's all about.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

The Word "Bugle."

When a man blows a bugle, the last thing in the world he would think of as a synonym for it is a wild steer or buffalo! But that is how it started.

"Bugle" comes from the Latin "buculus"—a steer. It is the diminutive of "bos"—ox. This described the buffalo, too, and the horn of the animal was called a "bugle horn." Then, in the ways of language, "horn" was dropped, and "bugle" was used to indicate it.

SUES RAILROADS

Government Charges Failure to Feed Livestock It Hauled.

Government textile mills are being opened in Turkey.

Embalmers Now Must Understand Plastic Surgery

DENVER—(INS)—Plastic surgery has been added to the skills of the modern embalmer.

C. W. Porterfield, of Holton, Kan., first vice president of the National Association of Funeral Directors, explained to the 41st annual convention of Colorado funeral directors recently that many embalmers have become professionals in their skill as plastic surgeons.

"A knowledge of plastic surgery enables the embalmer to make lifelike the features of persons marred in automobile accidents and through mutilating diseases," he explained.

Psychology is another field of learning in which the mortician should be informed, Porterfield said.

"Stress is being placed on a movement to classify the funeral director as a professional as well as a businessman," he pointed out. "Directors are learning a better understanding of the psychology of grief and how to assuage that grief."

BUILDS JOBLESS FUND

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(UP)—The South Carolina unemployment compensation commission has estimated there will be $6,473,000 in the unemployment trust fund to the credit of this state by July 1.

BUILD SHELTERS

Britons Inspect Caves as Haven in Gas Raids.

LONDON—(UP)—Thousands of Britons probably will become "cave-men" again in the event of another European war.

Old smugglers' caves in the chalk cliffs near Dover and Folkestone are being examined as possible air-raid shelters. Other caves in the cliffs at Margate, Ramsgate and Southend on both sides of the River Thames estuary also will almost certainly be used again as refuges as they were in the World war when these towns were subjected to intensive air raids.

HERE'S HOW TO MAKE SURE OF 'INSANE' FOURTH

Follow These Rules and You're Bound to Get Hurt During Holiday Observance.

For the second successive year the nation will have two days in which to celebrate the Fourth of July, as it falls on Monday this year and was on Sunday last year with observances on Monday, and millions will take to the highways and the nearest beaches.

In view of the fact that there were only 564 fatalities for the holiday week-end last year and that undoubtedly many persons will wish to increase that number this year (it has increased every year), the following ten rules have been carefully worked out for the best ways of getting yourself killed or injured:

1—Ignore the city's ordinance against bringing fire crackers into the city. Not only bring them in but work out spectacular ways of shooting them off (that's against the law, too)—such as putting them in tin cans or pipes, so that dangerous splinters may fly in all directions. This is especially good for losing an eye.

2—Always pick up a "dud" firecracker, one that you've lighted but which failed to go off. This is a thrifty gesture, and then too, it's apt to go off in your hand and blow off a finger, or at least cause lockjaw.

This Works Well.

3—Throwing firecrackers at autos is especially recommended if you want to blind a driver, cause a wreck and kill maybe two persons with one cracker.

4—You are almost certain to "get your man," if you light a big cracker and then throw it directly at him. This rule is known as "idiots' delight."

5—Try lighting firecrackers in an auto on the open road just for the fun of seeing whether you can throw them out before they explode.

6—See how big a firecracker you can hold in your hands as it explodes without losing a couple of fingers. Mere finger tips don't count.

7—Shooting off firecrackers, or any kind of fire works for that matter, near buildings may reward you by starting a fire.

Try Making Your Own.

8—Try making your own explosives. They sometimes turn out to be as good as bombs. You are almost certain to get killed, but if you aren't lucky you may have to be content with losing both your eyes or maybe only an arm.

9—Get a lot of friends to surround you when you try out these rules; there's no sense in being selfish about this. Maybe a whole bunch can get hurt at one time.

10—And lastly, don't attend public fireworks display, such as the big spectacular one at the Richland county fairgrounds on the Fourth. These are set off by explosive experts who know their business. But no one will get killed, there won't be any excitement and you'll probably be unlucky enough to go home with both of your eyes and the usual number of arms and legs and fingers.

Which would be stupid when there's such a swell chance to get killed over the Fourth of July.

VALENTINO 'DOUBLE' WINS BOTH PRAISE AND CRITICISM ON ROLE

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD — The lad with the heaviest load on his shoulders in Hollywood today is Jack Dunn, 23, who never has appeared in a movie and who has been selected as the star of "The Life of Rudolph Valentino."

All hands agree that the picture will make him one of Hollywood's great stars—or turn him into a man without a country, scared to look a Valentino fan in the face. It's up to him and the fans, who still take their Valentino seriously.

Dunn, a handsome young Englishman with black hair, dark eyes and a faint resemblance to the greatest sheik of them all, said he intended to play the part of Valentino as if he were doing an historical film. He said he hoped nobody would think he was trying to impersonate the sheik and that he'd be mighty happy if the fans would give him a little rest.

Since the announcement a couple of weeks ago that he would make the picture for Producer Edward Small, Dunn has been inundated with thousands of letters, some charging him with sacrilege, some congratulating him on his bravery, and some offering to sell him Valentino mementoes.

"I've even been getting telephone calls from ladies who said they knew Valentino intimately and would like to know me," Dunn added. He produced a sheaf of photographs sent in by gentlemen who thought they looked like the sheik and hence believed he had cheated them of their great chance.

"As we've got the thing doped out now," Dunn said, 'we're going to start with Valentino as an Italian gardener or maybe a hotel bus boy and follow through with his life until he makes 'The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.' That was the film that climaxed his career, because it made him a star."

ELECTION OK'D

State Tax Commission Approves $55,000 Bond Issue Note.

The state tax commission today had authorized a bond issue election in the city of Shelby Aug. 9, dispatches from Columbus said.

The commission authorized the electorate to vote at the August primaries, on the issuance of $55,000 in bonds for the construction of an addition to the municipal waterworks.

PLENTY PICNIC FOOD FOR 4TH

Produce markets are loaded this week-end in anticipation of the heavy buying for over the holiday. Food stores will close Saturday night and remain closed until Tuesday morning, and as a result ice boxes will be taxed to capacity to hold family supplies.

Picnic foods are especially attractive this week and stores are stocked with a wide assortment of cold meats, potato chips, picnic salad materials and fresh fruits.

Tomatoes, firm and of good flavor, are considerably lower in price, and cucumbers may now be listed in the "cheap" brackets. California head lettuce and endive, green peppers and bright yellow carrots, red and white radishes make an attractive picnic "attetizer" combination plate.

Although late in the season, asparagus is plentiful and tender. Golden bantam sweet corn makes its appearance on the market this week, along with the white variety. Home-grown green peas are well filled out and probably as cheap now as they will be at any time during the home-grown season.

Ohio grown fruits this week include transparent apples, gooseberries, red currants, cherries, both kinds of raspberries, and dewberries. There are a very few strawberries but their season is practically gone.

From other states there is a supply of big plums, apricots, pears and pineapples.

HEART ON HER SLEEVE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

CHAPTER IX

Jed was more certain than ever.

"You are afraid of him! Can't you trust me, tell me why?"

Moleen hedged.

"Why, really Jed—it's silly, I know it is. But it's nothing serious. He—he used to try to take me out when I was just a kid. He's an awful ladies' man. I—it's just that I don't want him to bother me any more."

Jed bristled.

"Is he annoying you now?"

"Oh, no—really he isn't! He's interested in Mignon now, and that worries me."

"Do you know anything wrong about him?"

"I see." But Jed wasn't quite sure he did see. "Well, if he bothers you, let me know. I'll handle him."

Again Moleen sounded frightened.

"Oh, Jed—please don't offend Charlie Farro?"

"And why not?"

"He—I know he has a terrible temper, that's all. I—if you try to pry into his affairs he—might get awfully angry."

Jed got up.

"I won't bother him now. But if he annoys you, you must tell me. There's something about that bird I don't like."

* * *

Moleen sighed with relief and followed Jed back into the inn. It was sweet of him to take such an interest in her. But it wasn't so pleasant when he turned Dutch uncle. But Jed was far from satisfied. He was more certain than ever that Moleen was keeping something back from him. And he meant to find out what it was.

Jed made another discovery that evening. It was that Sunny Tucker had fallen head over heels for Moleen. With amusement, he watched his employer's eyes following her everywhere she went, and the boys in the orchestra noticed it too.

It seemed to Jed that hourly Moleen grew more lovely; it amazed him that clothes and the proper food could transform a little sparrow into a butterfly so swiftly. He wondered if Moleen shared Sunny's feeling. But, watching them dance, he could detect nothing in his mascot's manner but childish pleasure in being dressed up and going to a party.

By all the rules of the book, Jed thought, he himself should fall in love with Moleen. But he wondered if she would ever seem grown up and a woman to him. Even in her sweeping gowns and lovely hats she was still the same little girl who had run into his arms in a doorway off Broadway to get out of the storm.

Jed was looking toward the door when he saw Charlie and Mignon walk out and down the path that led to the bench among the trees.

He was at the table when they returned a little later. Mignon's cheeks were pink as roses, and there was no mistaking the glow in her eyes.

Looking from the sleek self-satisfied Farro to the glowing girl, Jed felt a sudden desire to take the dark-eyed lady killer out and give him a good sock in the jaw. Amazing, he thought savagely, that a sweet, sensible girl like Mignon Laine could get romantic over a stuffed shirt like Farro just because he had a profile like a movie star and could dance like Fred Astaire.

He was lost in his savage thoughts when Sunny came toward the table, followed by a short little dark man in a blue shirt and rumpled suit.

* * *

Everyone had heard of Joe Elting. He was one of the most prominent theatrical men in New York. Getting into his office was almost as difficult as getting into the White House.

"I heard about you and came out to hear you sing. I'd like to put you under contract."

"It's a great chance, Patrick. And you must take it. I'll release you from any gentleman's agreement you have with me."

Jed thought fast. Then he shook his head.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Elting. I appreciate your interest in me. And I know you've made a lot of stars. But Tucker gave me my first opportunity, and I'm going to stick with him."

"No." Jed ran his long slender fingers through the unruly lock that always fell over his forehead. "I'll stick, Tucker, if you'll have me."

* * *

Elting hadn't seen much of that sort of loyalty in his business, and studying Jed's face he knew there wasn't much use in arguing. He bit the end off a cigar and sat back. He felt pretty sure he'd lose out on Patrick if he didn't grab him before any one else discovered him.

"Well, Tucker," he said then, "your band isn't so bad. In fact, I think it's one of the best swing outfits I've heard." He turned to Jed. "I might tie you in along with Tucker here if you'd like it that way.

Sunny was greatly surprised, but he said cannily, "I might be interested. What's your proposition?"

"In two weeks," Elting suggested. "Give Patrick here two more weeks out here and we'll get the papers started on him. You're something new in hillbillies, Patrick, and I believe you've got stuff that'll sell for big dough. You got me tonight and I'm pretty tough. I usually go on my hunches. If I don't like a guy's work, I pass him up."

"It sounds good to me," Jed grinned.

"What I'm really trying you out for is a show I'm producing in the fall," Elting revealed. "If you have any acting ability you're a natural for the part. It's a musical and I can tie in the band, too, Tucker, if you two hit it off."

"How about being in my office at ten in the morning?" He pulled out a card, handed it to Jed, and was gone before the had time to answer.

Sunny grinned.

"It's about a million dollars for each of us if we click. Patrick, that was pretty white of you to ring me in on your good luck?"

"Don't thank me! I was just too plumb scared to take a chance.. A bird in the hand looks mighty good to me."

The good news almost made Moleen forget her own worries But they came back more vividly than ever in the early hours of the morning when Mignon came into her room for another talk.

* * *

"He's terribly serious, really, Moleen! Am I awful to let him make love to me so soon? Of course I wouldn't think of it if you hadn't known him all your life. That makes it different. I feel—safe, since you know him so well."

Moleen wanted to cry out and tell the truth. But Mignon went on romantically. "Wouldn't it be strange, Molly if I really did meet the man I'd marry through you? If we really—would fall in love. It would seem like—fate."

* * *

Moleen awakened at eleven o'clock the next morning when Colette, Mignon's personal maid, brought a long box into the room.

"For me? How nice. I wonder who they are from?"

Colette rolled her big brown eyes.

"But I haven't," Moleen denied happily.

"You will have!" Colette smiled down at her and could scarcely believe she was the same girl who had been carried into the penthouse just a little more than two weeks before.

Colette went out and Moleen opened the box with trembling fingers. Two dozen American beauty roses! Deep red ones! And on Sunny's card in his boyish scrawl:

"Good morning, Beautiful Lady. I wish these were wild Irish roses. But they'll have to do. My love, Sunny"

* * *

Moleen buried her face in their fragrance, and blessed Sunny for his kindness. Every one was so good! Every one except Charlie Farro. He was the only obstacle in her way to almost complete happiness. He—and the thought of Pat in a reformatory, while she had all the lucky breaks. Poor Pat! If only she could share her good fortune with him.

Mignon decided at noon that it would be fun to have Charlie Farro to dinner, and to go out to the Wayside Inn afterward. It was too bad Jed or Sunny couldn't join them, but of course they couldn't get away.

Moleen felt it would be a dreadful ordeal for her, but she hid her feelings. She would have liked to find an excuse to go out for dinner, but there seemed to be no reasonably sounding one that she could think of.

7 TO ATTACK GRAND JURY'S INDICTMENTS

Legality of Special Panel Probing 'Collections' to Be Challenged in Court.

COLUMBUS—Pleading not guilty before Common Pleas Judge Charles A. Leach to indictments charging they violated the state law which forbids solicitation of civil service employes for political contributions, seven aids of Governor Davey today ware released on their of recognizance.

The defendants reserved the right to change their pleas to move that the indictments be quashed, or to move that the cases be dismissed on the ground the grand jury was not legally constituted.

The judge set Saturday, July 16, as the day on which the accused men must decide finally on how they will plead.

Calls for Pleas.

The first aid called was J. L. Kennedy, superintendent of the statehouse. Daniel E. Earhart, sales tax examiner, followed him.

Next came J. Freer Bittinger, Ashland, treasurer of the Davey for governor committee; M. Ray Allison, state finance director, charged in two indictments, represented by Guy R. Martin; Charles O. Wilson, acting gasoline tax division chief, charged in three indictments, represented by Paul E. Bowen; Frank W. Mowery, superintendent of the state office building, charged in three indictments; Thomas E. Dye, Urbana, assistant state purchasing agent, charged in two indictments.

Judge Leach said the bond that the men signed did not require the posting of money, but merely pledged the men to appear in court July 16.

John A. Connor, attorney for Dye and Bittinger, told the court "it is not our object to delay hearings in these cases, in fact the defendants would like to go to trial tomorrow had the counsel had sufficient time to adequately consider the cases."

Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, replied, "we would be ready."

Will Challenge Jury.

It was evident from the nature of the pleadings that defense counsel intends to challenge the legality of the special grand jury called by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy to investigate alleged solicitation of civil service employes for contributions to Governor Davey's campaign fund.

The jury resumed its inquiry immediately after handing down the seven indictments and there were indications that additional indictments would follow.

Kinsey Players to Do 'Uncle Tom' Here This Month

Mansfield will have an opportunity to see a revival of the classic of the American theater, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" sometime this month when the Madge Kinsey Players present the old play in the traditional manner.

The Kinsey Players open an engagement here Monday, July 11, with their own tent theater, and among their presentations will be the Harriet Beecher Stowe drama of slavery.

Another old timer of the legitimate theater that used to bring out an extra supply of handkerchiefs, will be presented by the Kinseys. It is the stage version of Mary J. Holmes' "Tempest and Sunshine." Both shows will be staged "straight," as they were in the early 1890's.

The Kinseys, a family of repertoire players for three generations, are among the last of the tent stock companies in America. Their home is in Loudonville, but they travel all over this section of the country. They appeared in Mansfield last summer.

Up and Down THE STREET

Members of the Senior high school band are enjoying their annual summer vacation along with the other students, but that does not mean that they also get a vacation from their band work. During the summer the band is holding rehearsals every Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium, in addition to playing engagements. The weekly rehearsals will continue until school re-opens in September.

Persons living in the vicinity of the Y. M. C. A. day camp on the Park avenue west road, probably thought a band of Indians had come back to this section of the country and decided to make their home there when they first saw the Indian tepee now on the camp site. The tepee was erected by a group of boys at the camp, and will be used in conjunction with the daily classes in Indian and nature lore.

County Commissioner Guy Stewart is sporting his "summer" haircut, one that leaves no doubt that he has been to the barber shop. Stewart's head, protected by little more than a tuft of hair well up in front, is the object of considerable fun for his associates at the courthouse. "The flies are going to have a playground for the rest of the summer," remarked Commissioner C. L. Mitchell. Unmindful of the jibes, Stewart defends his haircut, contending that it has the advantages of convenience and comfort.

A tribute "to the ladies" comes from Gil Baird and Bob Richards, directing the Fourth of July cavalcade. Last night at the general rehearsal at the Fairground, there was no stage and the dance groups had to rehearse on the dusty ball diamond. There was Jane (playground supervisor) Williams putting her group through the vigorous Virginia Reel, and there was Edith Fletcher Jameson and her group doing the stately minuet—and there was the dust thicker than it is at a rodeo; so thick, in fact, that you couldn't see the dancers' feet. "They not only were good sports about it," said the directors, "but they actually laughed about it—that is when they didn't have a mouthful of dust."

WANTS HOPKINS AT WPA INQUIRY

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaign funds committee may call Harry Hopkins, the WPA administrator, to testify about contentions that relief money has been used for political purposes.

Senator Walsh (D-Mass), a committee member, was reported today ready to seek a subpoena for Hopkins. Informed persons said in such an event Walsh would suggest that he co-operate with the committee in "removing even the suspicion" that the WPA is playing politics.

In a statement yesterday, Walsh referred to a speech by Aubrey Williams in which the deputy WPA administrator urged unemployed to keep their friends in power.

The speech already has been termed "unfortunate" by the senate committee, which decided late yesterday not to alter that comment.

Walsh, speaking at a member of the Democratic party, asserted that any use of relief funds for political purposes "is not only indefensible, but shocking to the public conscience."

He added:

"Any agency or officer of the present administration, who now or in the coming campaign will use federal funds to influence votes is not only acting in an un-Christian and un-American manner, but in my opinion is a traitor to President Roosevelt and the Democratic party.

Hopkins said yesterday that the WPA would deal quickly with proved cases of political coercion.

REGISTERS GAIN

Friendly House Playground's Attendance Increases.

A 25 per cent increase in attendance at the Friendly House playground for the first two weeks of the 1938 season over the same period last year, was reported today by Russell Gimbel, head worker at the settlement.

Attendance so far this year, according to Gimbel, has been about 2,800, with an average for each of the first two weeks of about 1,400.

In 1937 the attendance the first two weeks of the season was about 2,200. The fact that the playground is open morning, afternoon and night, are believed by Gimbel to be partly responsible for the increase.

Four supervisors are on duty each day the ground is open. Two are employed by the settlement while the others are WPA and NYA supervisors.

KINKS ELIMINATED IN FIRST JULY 4 CAVALCADE REHEARSAL

Mansfield's biggest outdoor show in many years, the Fourth of July historical cavalcade, was well on the way to completion today after a general rehearsal at the fairground last night in which major problems of stage, lighting and sound were worked out.

One of the "worries" of Producers J. Gilbert Baird and R. O. Richards was eliminated last night when it was decided that the pioneer wagon train episode would have to be skipped because there "ain't any."

A search of the county failed to develop any semblance of a covered wagon, and so the pioneer episode will show only Buffalo Bill and the pony express riders.

An attractive stage setting is being designed and built by Frank Forshee and the intricate lighting problem will be worked out by J. M. Barnett. Both are associated with Westinghouse promotion display work.

Besides the American cavalcade and the fireworks which will make up the evening celebration the afternoon and early evening will be given over to a community program in which the playgrounds and community groups will take part.

One of the features will be a public demonstration of Safety Town, the traffic school for small children, which will be directed by Officer Frend Boals.

The German Liederkranz and the Macedonians will present nationality programs. Short programs will be presented by the Boy and Girl Scouts and Mothersingers.

Trotting and pacing races are scheduled throughout the afternoon, and from 7 to 8 p. m. there will be four boxing bouts staged by the Friendly House.

The cavalcade show, to be staged opposite the grandstand, goes on at 8 p. m. and the fireworks display at 9:30. Men are at work this week building the many elaborate set pieces that will be fired on the Fourth.

The entire program is free, and is made possible through the efforts of the Mansfield Parks Association. Members of the association are soliciting funds to finance the cost of the fireworks.

CAMPING CHANCE FOR 13 YOUTHS

Registrations Still Open for One-Week Period, Says 'Y'.

Registrations are still open at the Y. M. C. A. for the second period of the "Y" summer camp at Camp Nelson Todd, near Brinkhaven, according to Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary.

The second period opens July 23 and continues for one week, closing July 30. The Mansfield "Y" has been given a quota of 15 boys for this period. Only two boys have signed up so far.

The first camp period opens Sunday, July 10, and continues for two weeks, closing July 24. Twenty-seven boys from Mansfield have signed to attend this period, filling the quota.

Workers from Mansfield who will be on the camp staff for the three weeks are Zane Wilson, Elzworth Ketner, and Chapman.

ACTION DELAYS START OF HUGE ARMAMENT RACE

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The tremendous cost of Japan's war on China has forced that nation to halt construction of three new 46,000-ton super-battleships, according to information reaching high official circles here.

For this reason, International News Service learned today, President Roosevelt has decided not, at this time, to launch the United States on a program of matching these super-dreadnaughts.

Race Cause Disappears.

Thus the reason for the launching of the greatest world-wide naval armaments race ever known had temporarily disappeared today just at the moment the United States, Great Britain and France signed a new agreement scrapping the 35,000-ton limitation that has been in effect on capital ships since the Washington disarmament conference in 1922.

The United States, on April 1, because of reports that Japan was exceeding the 35,000-ton limitation and building the largest battleships ever to ride the waves, invoked the escape clause in the London naval treaty of 1936 which held the three democracies to the limitation. It became effective with the signing of a protocol between the three countries yesterday fixing the new limitation at 45,000 tons and its armament 16-inch guns. Nothing even approaching this size of warships has ever been built with exception of Britain's 42,000-ton Hood.

The United States, against British and French oppositions, insisted that the limitation be lifted to 45,000 tons and compromised on 16-inch guns, although plans were being considered for 18-inch weapons.

"When it is decided to build larger capital ships, these limits are, from a technical point of view, believed most nearly to correspond with the naval defense needs of the United States," the state department explained.

CHARTS FINAL DEFENSE

SHANGHAI —(U.P.)— Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is determined that there shall be no peace in the far east until China's sovereignty is respected, it was reported today.

The report came as the generalissimo gathered all his commanders at general headquarters in Hankow to chart a final defense of the provisional capital toward which the Japanese are driving steadily.

DARKNESS OVER

Boy, Blind 11 Years, Happy as He Sees Again.

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—"It looks like a new world," said Harold Bleakley, 20, blind for 11 years, today when he returned here from New York where a successful operation restored his sight.

"I think I'll celebrate by just looking," he said. The most pleasing sight he saw after 11 years of almost total darkness, he added, was his mother's face.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Norris' Admirable Words On Political Patronage Rise Up to Plague Him

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The Baltimore Sun's editorial page for June 28 pulled a prize that is so much better than anything the column has to offer today that it will be shamelessly rehashed here.

The editorial begins talking quietly about the current misuse of patronage to coerce votes, and then startlingly begins quoting the veteran Senator Norris of Nebraska—the canonized saint of the third New Deal whom the president says should be elected for life—as follows:

"He proposes that the people 'elect a president who will proclaim, from the moment of his election, that he will not attempt to dictate a single measure of legislation; that he will not make a single appointment, from supreme court down to White House janitor, for any reason other than honesty and efficiency, and that he proposes to abolish the old rotten system of patronage. . . . Today the president has become more powerful than all the rest of government combined.

"The administration lays down a certain course and demands that congress shall follow it. The legislators who show their independence are punished and those that obey are rewarded.

* * *

"The punishments are calculated and refined. 'First, his patronage is taken away and his constituents are led to believe he is without weight or prestige in Washington. . . . If his wife and daughter have social proclivities, he is made to feel the administration's displeasure in still subtler ways."

Here follows, in words such as only Senator Norris can write, a description of the tactics the White House even now is using on those who, like Senator Tydings, have ventured to show a will of their own. All this . . . "is doing more than anything else to make a dictatorship out of a democracy."

Can anybody, even though thrilled with admiration for the senator's courage, candor and honesty, read this far and not doubt either his own eyesight or the Sun's accuracy? In the next line the editorial knocks the stilts out from under admiration and hope.

The white-plumed Nebraska knight without fear and without reproach wasn't writing that this year about Franklin Roosevelt's administration. He wrote that in 1923 about Cal Coolidge's sodamint dictation!

* * *

Nobody has pronged more patronage or been more intimately aligned with the present party of political purging than the plumed knight. No senator has received more political benefits from it. Yet the record will be searched without finding any repetition of the 1923 philippic against such political racketeering.

Never in the history of this country have the practices he then so searchingly condemned been more brazenly and shamelessly pursued, as each day's news reveals more copiously and clearly.

Apart from being hypocritical and sinister, all this is unnecessary. Mr. Roosevelt's prestige and overwhelming majorities in congress are not threatened with destruction.

There are only two possible purposes. One is overweening personal power, dictatorial in effect, if not in name. The other is petty, spiteful, vicious, personal punishment and vengeance.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Not too many years ago you heard producers whining because the fans stayed away from POOR pictures. Today's cheering thought is that they take it for granted the fans will stay away . . . from that kind!

One producer, viewing world conditions, sets $650,000 as top production cost on any feature expecting to show a profit. . . . With some exceptions, of course, like "Snow White" and "Robin Hood."

Jeffrey Lynn, the Worcester, Mass., boy who is making good in "Sister Act," has seen his rushes, is afraid he's in for some of the ribbing that pursued Robert Taylor so long. . . . "I've been photographed very, very pretty in two or three scenes," he confides, "but if it comes—I can take it."

* * *

Life seems normal again on the RKO lot. . . . Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire are working together again, with Mark Sandrich directing . . . and Irving Berlin music. . . . It's Old Home week . . . "Carefree" has a new twist in plot, which ought to make the reunion happier.

Inspirational re-christening of the week: Dorothy Comingore (the girl admired by Chaplin at Carmel) is re-titled Kay Winters, just as if the screen wasn't filled with Kays already, including Francis.

The screen return of Mitzi Green has met delay. . . . Cast in "Fiddlesticks," which was a combination of music and nutty comedy (the two film types presently in disrepute), she'll go instead into "The Mad Miss Manton" with Barbara Stanwyck.

The friendship of Bob Burns and Lew Ayres dates back to Lew's stardom and Bob's obscurity. . . . Lew was making a picture with Anita Louise ("Heaven on Earth"), in which Bob had an extra role.

What-ever-became-of department: All that talk about "grand opera" on the screen? And the "Shakespearean cycle" of pictures? And Charlotte Henry, the nice little girl of "Alice In Wonderland"?

That unfortunate, unfunny short Elaine Barrie made during a forgotten spat with John Barrymore has been unearthed for doubling on Los Angeles showings of a "sensational," but dull, feature on the dope evil. . . . But the ads were toned down after the first editions.

* * *

While Broadway is sending Hollywood's stars back for the summer, many of the local lights are hitting it east for summer stock. . . . Candidates include Fred Stone, Douglass Montgomery, Mary Brian, Onslow Stevens. . . . And Franchot Tone may get back to New York for that play he's been talking about.

CIO ATTORNEY WINS IN OUSTER FIGHT BUT HAS TO APOLOGIZE

(By Associated Press)

PORTSMOUTH—A signed statement by Edward Lamb ended today disbarment proceedings against the Ohio counsel for the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The Toledo attorney's regrets for his courtroom action during a strike injunction hearing last summer were spread on the records of the Scioto common pleas court after Judge Hector S. Young of Marion, sitting by assignment, dismissed the case late yesterday.

"The dignity of the court has been upheld by the apology," Judge Young said. "Mr. Lamb has done what any other good lawyer should do—admit his fault and express his regret."

Judge Young heard arguments on the case June 16 and reserved judgment until yesterday. The final ruling was not handed dodwn, however, until after an all-day discussion between Lamb's counsel and the Scioto County Bar committee which had charged him with "unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude."

The accusation developed after a hearing last August in which Lamb represented striking United Shoe Workers in an injunction suit brought by the Williams Manufacturing Co. During the hearing Lamb remarked, "the defense was hijacked in this hearing," and then made other comments which caused Presiding Judge William R. White of Gallipolis to name a committee to investigate Lamb's conduct. On March 5 the committee recommended disbarment.

SHEEP LOSS IN COUNTY REDUCED FOR SIX MONTHS

Richland county farmers lost only half as many sheep as the result of raids by dogs during the first half of this year, as they lost in a similar period in 1937, animal claims approved by county commissioners showed today.

Claims for the first six months of this year totaled $808 as compared with $1,671 last year.

For the quarter ending July 30, commissioners allowed 21 claims for a total of $540, with the largest filed by C. O. Robinson, Madison township. He was allowed $113 for sheep killed by dogs. In the same quarter last year, losses amounted to $1,330.

Credits Drive on Dogs.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, attributed the reduction in losses to the county's drive against unlicensed dogs and a healthier condition of sheep.

Once a prominent sheep-raiser in the county, Mitchell said sheep are sturdier this year and not so likely to be run down by dogs or to die as the result of being chased.

Legality of Special Panel Probing 'Collections' to Be Challenged in Court.

COLUMBUS—Pleading not guilty before Common Pleas Judge Charles A. Leach to indictments charging they violated the state law which forbids solicitation of civil service employes for political contributions, seven aids of Governor Davey today ware released on their of recognizance.

The defendants reserved the right to change their pleas to move that the indictments be quashed, or to move that the cases be dismissed on the ground the grand jury was not legally constituted.

The judge set Saturday, July 16, as the day on which the accused men must decide finally on how they will plead.

Calls for Pleas.

The first aid called was J. L. Kennedy, superintendent of the statehouse. Daniel E. Earhart, sales tax examiner, followed him.

Next came J. Freer Bittinger, Ashland, treasurer of the Davey for governor committee; M. Ray Allison, state finance director, charged in two indictments, represented by Guy R. Martin; Charles O. Wilson, acting gasoline tax division chief, charged in three indictments, represented by Paul E. Bowen; Frank W. Mowery, superintendent of the state office building, charged in three indictments; Thomas E. Dye, Urbana, assistant state purchasing agent, charged in two indictments.

Judge Leach said the bond that the men signed did not require the posting of money, but merely pledged the men to appear in court July 16.

John A. Connor, attorney for Dye and Bittinger, told the court "it is not our object to delay hearings in these cases, in fact the defendants would like to go to trial tomorrow had the counsel had sufficient time to adequately consider the cases."

Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, replied, "we would be ready."

Will Challenge Jury.

It was evident from the nature of the pleadings that defense counsel intends to challenge the legality of the special grand jury called by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy to investigate alleged solicitation of civil service employes for contributions to Governor Davey's campaign fund.

The jury resumed its inquiry immediately after handing down the seven indictments and there were indications that additional indictments would follow.

Kinsey Players to Do 'Uncle Tom' Here This Month

Mansfield will have an opportunity to see a revival of the classic of the American theater, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" sometime this month when the Madge Kinsey Players present the old play in the traditional manner.

The Kinsey Players open an engagement here Monday, July 11, with their own tent theater, and among their presentations will be the Harriet Beecher Stowe drama of slavery.

Another old timer of the legitimate theater that used to bring out an extra supply of handkerchiefs, will be presented by the Kinseys. It is the stage version of Mary J. Holmes' "Tempest and Sunshine." Both shows will be staged "straight," as they were in the early 1890's.

The Kinseys, a family of repertoire players for three generations, are among the last of the tent stock companies in America. Their home is in Loudonville, but they travel all over this section of the country. They appeared in Mansfield last summer.

Up and Down THE STREET

Members of the Senior high school band are enjoying their annual summer vacation along with the other students, but that does not mean that they also get a vacation from their band work. During the summer the band is holding rehearsals every Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium, in addition to playing engagements. The weekly rehearsals will continue until school re-opens in September.

Persons living in the vicinity of the Y. M. C. A. day camp on the Park avenue west road, probably thought a band of Indians had come back to this section of the country and decided to make their home there when they first saw the Indian tepee now on the camp site. The tepee was erected by a group of boys at the camp, and will be used in conjunction with the daily classes in Indian and nature lore.

County Commissioner Guy Stewart is sporting his "summer" haircut, one that leaves no doubt that he has been to the barber shop. Stewart's head, protected by little more than a tuft of hair well up in front, is the object of considerable fun for his associates at the courthouse. "The flies are going to have a playground for the rest of the summer," remarked Commissioner C. L. Mitchell. Unmindful of the jibes, Stewart defends his haircut, contending that it has the advantages of convenience and comfort.

A tribute "to the ladies" comes from Gil Baird and Bob Richards, directing the Fourth of July cavalcade. Last night at the general rehearsal at the Fairground, there was no stage and the dance groups had to rehearse on the dusty ball diamond. There was Jane (playground supervisor) Williams putting her group through the vigorous Virginia Reel, and there was Edith Fletcher Jameson and her group doing the stately minuet—and there was the dust thicker than it is at a rodeo; so thick, in fact, that you couldn't see the dancers' feet. "They not only were good sports about it," said the directors, "but they actually laughed about it—that is when they didn't have a mouthful of dust."

WANTS HOPKINS AT WPA INQUIRY

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaign funds committee may call Harry Hopkins, the WPA administrator, to testify about contentions that relief money has been used for political purposes.

Senator Walsh (D-Mass), a committee member, was reported today ready to seek a subpoena for Hopkins. Informed persons said in such an event Walsh would suggest that he co-operate with the committee in "removing even the suspicion" that the WPA is playing politics.

In a statement yesterday, Walsh referred to a speech by Aubrey Williams in which the deputy WPA administrator urged unemployed to keep their friends in power.

The speech already has been termed "unfortunate" by the senate committee, which decided late yesterday not to alter that comment.

Walsh, speaking at a member of the Democratic party, asserted that any use of relief funds for political purposes "is not only indefensible, but shocking to the public conscience."

He added:

"Any agency or officer of the present administration, who now or in the coming campaign will use federal funds to influence votes is not only acting in an un-Christian and un-American manner, but in my opinion is a traitor to President Roosevelt and the Democratic party.

Hopkins said yesterday that the WPA would deal quickly with proved cases of political coercion.

CAMPING CHANCE FOR 13 YOUTHS

Registrations Still Open for One-Week Period, Says 'Y'.

Registrations are still open at the Y. M. C. A. for the second period of the "Y" summer camp at Camp Nelson Todd, near Brinkhaven, according to Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary.

The second period opens July 23 and continues for one week, closing July 30. The Mansfield "Y" has been given a quota of 15 boys for this period. Only two boys have signed up so far.

The first camp period opens Sunday, July 10, and continues for two weeks, closing July 24. Twenty-seven boys from Mansfield have signed to attend this period, filling the quota.

Workers from Mansfield who will be on the camp staff for the three weeks are Zane Wilson, Elzworth Ketner, and Chapman.

JOINS AP CIRCUIT

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Mt. Vernon Republican-News, a new member of the Associated Press, began today receiving leased wire service on the Ohio state circuit. L. A. Culbertson is general manager of the Republican-News and Justin E. Devalon is editor.

KINKS ELIMINATED IN FIRST JULY 4 CAVALCADE REHEARSAL

Mansfield's biggest outdoor show in many years, the Fourth of July historical cavalcade, was well on the way to completion today after a general rehearsal at the fairground last night in which major problems of stage, lighting and sound were worked out.

One of the "worries" of Producers J. Gilbert Baird and R. O. Richards was eliminated last night when it was decided that the pioneer wagon train episode would have to be skipped because there "ain't any."

A search of the county failed to develop any semblance of a covered wagon, and so the pioneer episode will show only Buffalo Bill and the pony express riders.

An attractive stage setting is being designed and built by Frank Forshee and the intricate lighting problem will be worked out by J. M. Barnett. Both are associated with Westinghouse promotion display work.

Besides the American cavalcade and the fireworks which will make up the evening celebration the afternoon and early evening will be given over to a community program in which the playgrounds and community groups will take part.

One of the features will be a public demonstration of Safety Town, the traffic school for small children, which will be directed by Officer Frend Boals.

The German Liederkranz and the Macedonians will present nationality programs. Short programs will be presented by the Boy and Girl Scouts and Mothersingers.

Trotting and pacing races are scheduled throughout the afternoon, and from 7 to 8 p. m. there will be four boxing bouts staged by the Friendly House.

The cavalcade show, to be staged opposite the grandstand, goes on at 8 p. m. and the fireworks display at 9:30. Men are at work this week building the many elaborate set pieces that will be fired on the Fourth.

The entire program is free, and is made possible through the efforts of the Mansfield Parks Association. Members of the association are soliciting funds to finance the cost of the fireworks.

REGISTERS GAIN

Friendly House Playground's Attendance Increases.

A 25 per cent increase in attendance at the Friendly House playground for the first two weeks of the 1938 season over the same period last year, was reported today by Russell Gimbel, head worker at the settlement.

Attendance so far this year, according to Gimbel, has been about 2,800, with an average for each of the first two weeks of about 1,400.

In 1937 the attendance the first two weeks of the season was about 2,200. The fact that the playground is open morning, afternoon and night, are believed by Gimbel to be partly responsible for the increase.

Four supervisors are on duty each day the ground is open. Two are employed by the settlement while the others are WPA and NYA supervisors.

ACTION DELAYS START OF HUGE ARMAMENT RACE

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The tremendous cost of Japan's war on China has forced that nation to halt construction of three new 46,000-ton super-battleships, according to information reaching high official circles here.

For this reason, International News Service learned today, President Roosevelt has decided not, at this time, to launch the United States on a program of matching these super-dreadnaughts.

Race Cause Disappears.

Thus the reason for the launching of the greatest world-wide naval armaments race ever known had temporarily disappeared today just at the moment the United States, Great Britain and France signed a new agreement scrapping the 35,000-ton limitation that has been in effect on capital ships since the Washington disarmament conference in 1922.

The United States, on April 1, because of reports that Japan was exceeding the 35,000-ton limitation and building the largest battleships ever to ride the waves, invoked the escape clause in the London naval treaty of 1936 which held the three democracies to the limitation. It became effective with the signing of a protocol between the three countries yesterday fixing the new limitation at 45,000 tons and its armament 16-inch guns. Nothing even approaching this size of warships has ever been built with exception of Britain's 42,000-ton Hood.

The United States, against British and French oppositions, insisted that the limitation be lifted to 45,000 tons and compromised on 16-inch guns, although plans were being considered for 18-inch weapons.

"When it is decided to build larger capital ships, these limits are, from a technical point of view, believed most nearly to correspond with the naval defense needs of the United States," the state department explained.

CHARTS FINAL DEFENSE

SHANGHAI — (U.P.) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is determined that there shall be no peace in the far east until China's sovereignty is respected, it was reported today.

The report came as the generalissimo gathered all his commanders at general headquarters in Hankow to chart a final defense of the provisional capital toward which the Japanese are driving steadily.

DARKNESS OVER

Boy, Blind 11 Years, Happy as He Sees Again.

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—"It looks like a new world," said Harold Bleakley, 20, blind for 11 years, today when he returned here from New York where a successful operation restored his sight.

"I think I'll celebrate by just looking," he said. The most pleasing sight he saw after 11 years of almost total darkness, he added, was his mother's face.

The boy's sight was restored by a remarkable operation at Medical Center in which new pupils were "bored" in his eyeballs.

FUNERAL SET

Funeral services for Ernest Christian, 39, of 23½ Lewis avenue, who died Wednesday at his home following a lingering illness, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Mt. Herman Baptist church in charge of Rev. David Thomas. The body will be shipped to Alabama for burial.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Norris' Admirable Words On Political Patronage Rise Up to Plague Him

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The Baltimore Sun's editorial page for June 28 pulled a prize that is so much better than anything the column has to offer today that it will be shamelessly rehashed here.

The editorial begins talking quietly about the current misuse of patronage to coerce votes, and then startlingly begins quoting the veteran Senator Norris of Nebraska—the canonized saint of the third New Deal whom the president says should be elected for life—as follows:

"He proposes that the people 'elect a president who will proclaim, from the moment of his election, that he will not attempt to dictate a single measure of legislation; that he will not make a single appointment, from supreme court down to White House janitor, for any reason other than honesty and efficiency, and that he proposes to abolish the old rotten system of patronage. . . . Today the president has become more powerful than all the rest of government combined.

"The administration lays down a certain course and demands that congress shall follow it. The legislators who show their independence are punished and those that obey are rewarded.

* * *

"The punishments are calculated and refined. 'First, his patronage is taken away and his constituents are led to believe he is without weight or prestige in Washington. . . . If his wife and daughter have social proclivities, he is made to feel the administration's displeasure in still subtler ways."

Here follows, in words such as only Senator Norris can write, a description of the tactics the White House even now is using on those who, like Senator Tydings, have ventured to show a will of their own. All this . . . "is doing more than anything else to make a dictatorship out of a democracy."

Can anybody, even though thrilled with admiration for the senator's courage, candor and honesty, read this far and not doubt either his own eyesight or the Sun's accuracy? In the next line the editorial knocks the stilts out from under admiration and hope.

The white-plumed Nebraska knight without fear and without reproach wasn't writing that this year about Franklin Roosevelt's administration. He wrote that in 1923 about Cal Coolidge's sodamint dictation!

* * *

Nobody has pronged more patronage or been more intimately aligned with the present party of political purging than the plumed knight. No senator has received more political benefits from it. Yet the record will be searched without finding any repetition of the 1923 philippic against such political racketeering.

Never in the history of this country have the practices he then so searchingly condemned been more brazenly and shamelessly pursued, as each day's news reveals more copiously and clearly.

Apart from being hypocritical and sinister, all this is unnecessary. Mr. Roosevelt's prestige and overwhelming majorities in congress are not threatened with destruction.

There are only two possible purposes. One is overweening personal power, dictatorial in effect, if not in name. The other is petty, spiteful, vicious, personal punishment and vengeance.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Not too many years ago you heard producers whining because the fans stayed away from POOR pictures. Today's cheering thought is that they take it for granted the fans will stay away . . . from that kind!

One producer, viewing world conditions, sets $650,000 as top production cost on any feature expecting to show a profit. . . . With some exceptions, of course, like "Snow White" and "Robin Hood."

Jeffrey Lynn, the Worcester, Mass., boy who is making good in "Sister Act," has seen his rushes, is afraid he's in for some of the ribbing that pursued Robert Taylor so long. . . . "I've been photographed very, very pretty in two or three scenes," he confides, "but if it comes—I can take it."

* * *

Life seems normal again on the RKO lot. . . . Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire are working together again, with Mark Sandrich directing . . . and Irving Berlin music. . . . It's Old Home week . . . "Carefree" has a new twist in plot, which ought to make the reunion happier.

Inspirational re-christening of the week: Dorothy Comingore (the girl admired by Chaplin at Carmel) is re-titled Kay Winters, just as if the screen wasn't filled with Kays already, including Francis.

The screen return of Mitzi Green has met delay. . . . Cast in "Fiddlesticks," which was a combination of music and nutty comedy (the two film types presently in disrepute), she'll go instead into "The Mad Miss Manton" with Barbara Stanwyck.

The friendship of Bob Burns and Lew Ayres dates back to Lew's stardom and Bob's obscurity. . . . Lew was making a picture with Anita Louise ("Heaven on Earth"), in which Bob had an extra role.

What-ever-became-of department: All that talk about "grand opera" on the screen? And the "Shakespearean cycle" of pictures? And Charlotte Henry, the nice little girl of "Alice In Wonderland"?

That unfortunate, unfunny short Elaine Barrie made during a forgotten spat with John Barrymore has been unearthed for doubling on Los Angeles showings of a "sensational," but dull, feature on the dope evil. . . . But the ads were toned down after the first editions.

CIO ATTORNEY WINS IN OUSTER FIGHT BUT HAS TO APOLOGIZE

(By Associated Press)

PORTSMOUTH—A signed statement by Edward Lamb ended today disbarment proceedings against the Ohio counsel for the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The Toledo attorney's regrets for his courtroom action during a strike injunction hearing last summer were spread on the records of the Scioto common pleas court after Judge Hector S. Young of Marion, sitting by assignment, dismissed the case late yesterday.

"The dignity of the court has been upheld by the apology," Judge Young said. "Mr. Lamb has done what any other good lawyer should do—admit his fault and express his regret."

Judge Young heard arguments on the case June 16 and reserved judgment until yesterday. The final ruling was not handed dodwn, however, until after an all-day discussion between Lamb's counsel and the Scioto County Bar committee which had charged him with "unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude."

The accusation developed after a hearing last August in which Lamb represented striking United Shoe Workers in an injunction suit brought by the Williams Manufacturing Co. During the hearing Lamb remarked, "the defense was hijacked in this hearing," and then made other comments which caused Presiding Judge William R. White of Gallipolis to name a committee to investigate Lamb's conduct. On March 5 the committee recommended disbarment.

Boyfriend Won't Plan Wedding

By VIRGINIA LEE

A YOUNG WOMAN asks my help in this rather unusual situation: For three years she has been interested in a young man some years her senior, and he in her. However, he seems to think his people cannot get along financially without him, and so he won't tell the girl he loves her and ask her to marry him. His actions, however, show that he does care and his people like the girl very much.

The two are separated, that is, they do not live in the same town, and the girl says she always has been a "home girl," not going out very much. If she does accept a date with another man she says she is always comparing him with her absent boy friend and doesn't enjoy herself.

Now what is she to do? She cannot think of anything except "either put my foot down and say with force, 'This is the end,' or shall I just keep on going on and sort of gamble, hoping that all will turn out all right?"

MILLIE: My experience has been that if a man is interested enough in a girl, he will "find a way," just like "Sentimental Tommy" of Barrie's famous novel. I don't doubt this young man cares for you more than he does for any other girl, but I do doubt that he cares enough to work out a plan whereby he could marry. I am sure it could be done if he set his mind to it. It is easy to play the martyr, decide that circumstances are too much for one, and settle down to "sacrifice one's life." But the real person is willing to make circumstances fit his needs. You need not even live with his people, I imagine. He could still be interested in his mother's business and help her with it, and maintain his own home. The longer he stays at home and does nothing for himself, the harder it will be. He is old enough to marry, and as a man goes along into his thirties, the desire for his own home and mate dulls a bit. At least that has been my observation.

Tell Him Plainly.

If you want a home of your own, I think you should tell him plainly that as he does not care for you enough to work out a plan so that you can be together, you had better stop writing to each other and spending your vacations together. A man who loves a woman and wants her very much, will accomplish that end unless there are very, very unusual circumstances. A young friend of mine was married just the other day because she and the young man she loved were determined to have their own home and were willing to sacrifice something in order to get it. Her fiance's circumstances were much like your boy friend's.

I know this young man seems to be the only one you really can love, just now. But, believe me, you would not be very happy married to a man who lets circumstances get him down. Who is not willing to do some hard work and hard thinking for the one he loves and for a home of his own? I cannot help feeling that this young man's attitude indicates that he is the sort of person who cannot meet and conquer difficulties, and you would be up against that thing all your life, if you wait for him.

City Chicken
French Fried Potatoes
Stewed Tomatoes Green Onions
Raspberry Ambrosia Tea

Your butcher will make the city chickens for you if you do not care to go to the bother of making them yourself. The rennet or junket dessert is easy to make and healthful for grown-ups and children.

Today's Recipes.

CITY CHICKEN.—One pound veal cutlet, one pound pork steak, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one egg, three-fourths cup fine bread crumbs, two tablespoons bacon or similar fat, one teaspoon onion (may be omitted), two tablespoons flour, one-half cup water or meat stock, one cup milk. Scald and wipe wooden or metal skewers. Wipe meat with a dampened cloth, cut in inch squares, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Insert skewers in center of pieces of meat, alternating the veal and pork and using five or six pieces on each skewer. With fingers mold meat into drum stick shape, then dip in beaten egg and coat well with crubs. Spread out on a platter and let stand thirty minutes to an hour or so. Melt fat, brown onion in it, add meat and brown it on all sides. Remove to a greased baking dish. Blend flour into hot fat. Add meat stock or water slowly stirring until thickened. Add milk slowly also. Season well, pour over meat, cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, until tender and nicely browned. Remove cover during last 30 minutes of cooking. Meat should cook in an hour to an hour and a half.

RASPBERRY AMBROSIA. — One package rennet power, one pint milk, one-half cup shredded pineapple, one-half cup marshmallows cut in quarters, shredded cocoanut. Make custard according to directions on package. Chill in refrigerator. Mix quartered marshmallows and shredded pineapple and chill. When ready to serve, top each dessert with pineapple mixture and sprinkle with shredded cocoanut.

Butterscotch Sticks.

One-fourth cup butter, one cup brown sugar, one egg, one-fourth cup broken pecan meats, one cup sifted flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla. Melt butter in a saucepan, add sugar and when well blended remove from fire and cool to lukewarm. Add unbeaten egg to mixture and beat well. Mix flour, salt and baking powder and add to sugar mixture in saucepan, then add nut meats and vanilla and spread mixture in shallow pans lined with plain paper, greased. Bake 30 minutes in hot oven. While hot cut into strips an inch wide and four inches long. Makes about 24. Nice to serve with beverages or to take on picnic.

SOUR CREAM GRIDDLE CAKES—One and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one cup sour cream, one teaspoon salt, two eggs, well beaten. This makes 12 medium griddle cakes.

SOUR CREAM WAFFLES — Two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon baking soda, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one-half pint sour cream, one-half cup milk, three eggs. Makes eight waffles. Sift all dry ingredients together, add the liquids, then the well-beaten eggs. Mix thoroughly and bake.

HEARTY SANDWICHES—One-half pound boiled ham, three hard boiled eggs, one stalk celery, one green pepper, one cream cheese. Grind all together and spread on white or rye bread.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

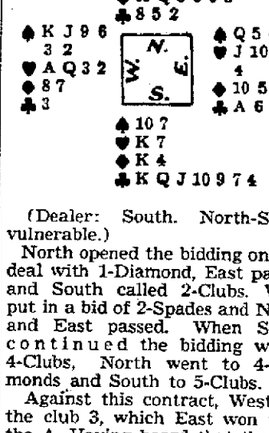
"The Authority on Authorities"

ENTRIES NOT NEEDED

When you can see that a simple finesse would set up the dummy's suit, even if your partner had the king, what is the use of trying to knock a side entry out of the dummy? You would only waste opportunity by doing so. The declarer could win the trick, drop the rest of the trumps and then sail on with the long suit. In a spot like this, your sole chance is to whack at the one remaining suit, in the hope that your partner can get the setting tricks there.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond, East passed and South called 2-Clubs. West put in a bid of 2-Spades and North and East passed. When South continued the bidding with 4-Clubs, North went to 4-Diamonds and South to 5-Clubs.

Against this contract, West led the club 3, which East won with the A. Having heard that the important thing to do with a long suit in dummy was to knock out the entry, he failed to realize that he had a more important mission in this particular case. His partner had put in an overcall and as he didn't have the A or Q of the suit, wasn't it likely that he held some strength in hearts? Had he shifted to that suit, instead of attacking spades, the contract would have been immediately set one.

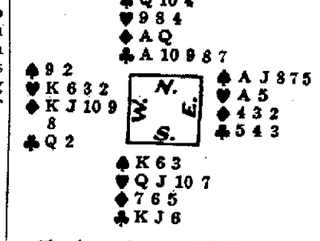
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After the lead of the spade 9, against South's 3-No Trumps contract, what is his best play to make the contract?

Hints On Care Of Feet In Summer

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Foot makeup has gained its present popularity because it's the one thing that will make those drab, prosaic feet look smart and "in the swim." Some time ago this department gave a step-by-step home pedicure, but since the days for bathing suits and bare feet are now upon us, we thought that you might be interested in a few more tips on how to keep your feet looking chic and feeling fine.

True, rosy-red polishes are about the best bet for your toes because of their lively tone. A good shade is a true tulip red. Of course with a suntan you can wear browner shades like heather or robin red. There are lots of other good clear reds like pimento and red banana, and other brownish tones are flower-pot red and rust. So pay your money and take your choice.

If your cuticle has gotten beyond control and grown down over your toenails, or if it is just plain difficult to work back, this is a good point to remember. Dip pads of cotton in oily cuticle remover, but be sure it is the oily type. Place one over each nail and leave them on for three or four minutes. Then go to work with an orange stick wrapped around with absorbent cotton. Press your cuticle back gently. Don't try to push it back until it has become soft and pliable. Next rinse your toes and remove the loosened particles of cuticle with a soft towel.

Often the continual rubbing of the tops of your slippers against your heels cause an accumulation of skin just above the slipper line. In some cases where feet are neglected the skin will get so hard and heavy that it is almost a callous.

Bath Brush Helps.

If you have only a mild case of this type roughness, the daily use of a stiff bristled bath brush will soften the skin and keep the heel smooth. It is often a good idea to rub a little hand cream on the area two or three times a week.

When the skin on your heel is really hard and rough it is best to use more drastic measures to get it back in condition. Put some of your oily cuticle remover on a piece of absorbent cotton and rub it over the rough spot. This will take off the hard, dry skin.

Try giving yourself a foot massage to make your tootsies feel as fine as they look. The point to focus on is the transverse arch which is across the foot just above the toes. This is where strain and pressure are felt, and the higher the heel the more the pressure. Most foot troubles start at this very spot. Use a non-greasy hand cream and go to work, with your fingers under the foot, and thumbs above the foot, using a round and round motion. This will relieve nerve strain, relax muscles and pep up your entire system.

With a nice pedicure and these tips in mind, you can cool a smooth heel and wiggle a twinkling toe at the beach all summer long.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I STARTED in dismay as Dicky asked, "Where is Katrina?" in an attempt to divert his mother's attention from his quip, which had offended her.

In my absorption with the small boys and the problem they had presented to me, I had forgotten all about Katherine's request that I, myself, come to her before dinner was ready so she might tell me if she would have to be content with a tray in her room. She had stipulated that no one else should come to her, and that I should let myself into the room with the extra set of nursery keys, so that she need not leave her task of telephoning nerve specialists in the city in the hope of getting an appointment for Hank the next day.

There was another reason for wishing me and no one else to come to her. She did not want anybody to overhear what she was saying, and as her phone is on a circuit of its own, she was safe from having anybody pick up a receiver and accidentally overhear her.

I was conscious that both Dicky's eyes and his mother's were upon me, wondering at my silence, and I spoke quickly:

"Katherine does not know whether she wants a tray in her room or not," I said.

Suspect Faith Is Ill.

"Why? Is there anything the matter with Faith?" my mother-in-law demanded anxiously, and Dicky's voice promptly echoed her query, fully warranted by the fact that when Faith is ailing, even ever so slightly, Katherine never comes downstairs for her meals.

"No, not a thing," I returned, thankful to be able to give the truthful assurance. "She went to sleep like the proverbial top. But Katherine has a lot of—" I hesitated only the fraction of a second, and substituted the word "writing" for "telephoning" which was almost upon my tongue.

Dicky's eyes flashed relieved commendation, for he alone knew what Katherine was doing.

"Probably wants to catch a boat," he said, and I murmured a quick assent.

"Let us go in to dinner," I said, "and when we're started, I'll slip up and ask her if she wants a tray."

Dicky to Rescue.

"Why do you need to go?" my mother-in-law demanded. "Why can't William or Henry save you those steps?"

I quaked inwardly at the idea of Hank's being sent upstairs, with the chance of discovering prematurely what we were planning for him, but Dicky leaped to the rescue.

"You ought to know Madge's fussiness by this time, Mother," he said with a studied air of disparagement. "She doesn't think anybody, even that gigantic intellectual, her husband, is capable of putting two and two together and making four out of it. If she wants to summon Katrina herself, for the love of Abrahám and all the rest of the prophets, let her do it. Come on! Let's eat!"

"You needn't be blasphemous about it," his mother told him reprovingly as he tucked her hand under his arm and started toward the dining room with her.

"Mother mine," he said with grieved expostulation, and I knew that he was deliberately baiting her to take her attention from me, "show me a place in the Bible where it says, 'Thou shalt not take the name of Abraham in vain'."

Unfortunately, there was a suppressed chuckle from Hank, the irrepressible, at this juncture, a chuckle which my mother-in-law, usually somewhat deaf, must have overheard with her one good ear.

"I seem to be providing amusement for the entire family this evening," she said loftily. "Perhaps I, too, would better have a tray in my room."

Dicky stopped short and turned upon the luckless Hank.

"Hank, did you laugh just then?" he demanded sternly.

"Yes — yes, sir," Hank stammered.

"Were you laughing at your grandmother, or at some private joke between you and Bill?" Dicky asked next with equal sternness, but I saw with delightful relief that he had given the boy a "way out".

Are Your Nerves An Asset at All Times?

But Why Are They So Different?

Doris lies awake every night magnifying little worries to enormous size. Dot's discovered little tricks of relaxing. First, she concentrates, on letting every muscle go limp, from ears to toes. Then she imagines some lovely quiet scene, like a lake at sunset. Before she knows it, she's asleep.

Doris takes her troubles to meals. She eats lunch hurriedly, her mind on unfinished work, errands yet to do. But Dot arranges to lunch with a friend. Or she takes along a magazine to read or tries out a new restaurant.

Doris sits at home and mopes because she feels "tired" all the time. Dot knows that to keep nervous energy bottled up is, in itself exhausting. So she finds outlets in tennis, dancing, club work.

If "nerves" have got you down, read in our 32-page booklet how to get at the root of the trouble. Written by a famous physician it tells how to win glowing health and vitality.

Questions Of Serving Answered

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I know you will be encouraged in your "crusade" against the hostess who has herself served first before a woman guest at her table, to hear that I not only abhor this discourtesy myself, but that I even feel uncomfortable in having myself served before every last other woman at my table. But I believe from what you write time and again, that it can not be considered rude if a hostess has herself served in turn, as long as the dishes are started with the woman who sits at the right of the host. Will you explain about this; that is, whether you mean having herself served in turn is only permissible or on the other hand whether it is proper because practical.

Answer: Whenever a course is brought in from the pantry already in or on its plate, such as soup for example, or oysters, or possibly an individually arranged entree, whoever is waiting on table would then serve the ladies before the gentlemen. And in this case, of course, serve the hostess the last of the ladies. But when in the usual course of service the dish begins with the lady on the right of the host (or the lady on the right of the hostess at a woman's luncheon) the dish is then passed around to each in turn, gentlemen as well as ladies. This first course is passed to the right; the second course should start with the lady on the left of the host and continue around to the left. The object of this is to give the lady who sits in the second place of honor the courtesy of having one or two untouched dishes presented to her.

Dear Mrs. Post: On what occasion, outside of stag parties, should a husband be invited to dinner without his wife being invited also? My husband's office, and also his Sunday school, are frequently giving dinners and they never include the wives which I think is carrying business and church work too far.

Answer: When husbands are invited without their wives it is always a stag party. Men without any women is the meaning of the word stag. If at all of these parties no other wives are invited and no other women are included, you certainly have no cause for complaint against the discourtesy of being overlooked. I don't know what you can do about it unless you institute men parties among the wives, or unless you get a Round Robin petition to include the wives at some of their parties or unless you persuade your husband to stay at home.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper to serve cream with after dinner coffee in the living room? And should small napkins be provided?

Answer: It is quite proper to serve cream with after dinner coffee if you choose. That is, many people like it and therefore it is passed in about four houses in six. Napkins, however, are NEVER provided with after dinner coffee.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 2.

Judging by the lunar and mutual aspects, this may prove a day for settling some lagging accounts, recasting the budget or otherwise taking stock of frozen assets. There are signs of peculiar situations, possibly with petty enmities, strife or greed involved.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which there may be some calling to account in finances, with revamped budgets or efforts to restore credit. This may be the result of rash speculation; unwise expenditures in attempts at expansion, or possibly through individual extravagance or social indulgences.

A child born on this day may have a large, generous, expansive and indulgent nature. It may be prone to extravagance, show and magnanimous gestures that may lead it "on the rocks" or into financial difficulties.
